REBELS TRAP GOVERNMENT BATTALION IN ASTURIAS

Force Cut Off and Wiped Out in Fierce Fighting in Mountains, Second Column Scattered, Insurgents Report.

MADRID LOYALISTS CLAIM BIG GAIN

15-Mile Advance West of Capital Said to Have Been Made in Drive Starting at Dawn—Intensive Aerial Action.

By the Associated Press. MADRID, July 6.—General headquarters for the Spanish Government Central Army announced today its forces had advanced about 15 miles west of Madrid in an offensive beginning at dawn.

A battle was being waged at Villanueva de la Canada, north of Brunete. The Government said it had taken Brunete.

(An insurgent communiqué from Hendaye, France, said the Madrid forces had been repulsed, with many dead.)

The Government stated the attack began with "most intensive aerial action" against the rebels' front lines and rear guard. A gasoline deposit at Navalcarnero, 18 miles southwest of Madrid, was set afire and destroyed.

A number of prisoners were taken, the communiqué added, "among them an artillery commander, two officers and a sergeant."

By the Associated Press. HENDAYE, French-Spanish Frontier, July 6.—A Government battalion trapped by insurgents near Somiedo on the Asturian front, was annihilated in fierce fighting in the mountainous country of Northern Spain, an insurgent communiqué reported today.

The battalion was cut off during an advance on Somiedo Heights, at the same time scattering another Government column, the communiqué said.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco's troops occupied 13 positions formerly held by the enemy, it was said, and suffered only "slight losses."

The Biscayan campaign continued near the border of Santander and Vizcaya provinces, east of the Asturian front, where the rebels occupied Mount Castro Alen, a natural fortress 2600 feet high.

Insurgent captains of Bilbao have pushed the evacuating Basque army back into Santander province, west and northwest of Bilbao.

A Government attack against Gen. Franco's siege lines at Madrid, in the Casa de Campo sector, west of the capital, was said to have been repulsed, the Madrid forces abandoning a large number of dead.

Another Government attack, at Nuestra de la Reina, in which 14 Russian tanks were reported to have taken part, also was beaten off, the communiqué said, and one tank destroyed and another captured.

A third Government assault near Madrid, aided by 16 tanks, was repulsed, the insurgents said. Madrid, however, reported a successful drive near Valdemora, 17 miles east of Madrid, in which a road connecting enemy positions was severed yesterday.

In renewed effort to drive back the southern siege lines, Government artillery in the new drive opened fire on the town of Sesena, about 25 miles from Madrid.

Two British Warships Go to Aid of Steamer Halted by Rebels.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, July 6.—Lloyds' reported today that two British warships had gone to the assistance of the British steamer Gordonia today after it was stopped near Santander, Spain, by a Spanish insurgent warship.

MRS. MUENCH WILL LEAVE TOMORROW TO BEGIN TERM

Baby Hoax Mail Fraud Conspirator to go to Milan, Mich., Under 10-Year Sentence.

Mrs. Nellie Tipton Muench will be taken from City Jail to the United States Detention Farm at Milan, Mich., tomorrow to begin serving her 10-year term for mail fraud in the notorious Muench baby hoax.

She will be taken to prison by train in custody of United States Marshal William B. Fahy. Fahy will be accompanied by his wife and daughter.

Mrs. Muench had hoped to go to the model reformatory at Alderson, W. Va., but lately became reconciled to serving her sentence elsewhere.

Her husband, Dr. Ludwig O. Muench, already has begun serving his eight-year sentence at Leavenworth penitentiary and Mrs. Helen Beroy, under five-year sentence, went to Alderson in March. The fourth defendant, Wilfred Jones, disbarred attorney, under 10-year sentence, has not yet elected to leave the City Jail. Time spent by the four baby hoax conspirators in jail will not reduce their penitentiary sentences. The time for perfecting their appeal expires next Monday.

10 RAYON FIRMS ACCUSED OF PRICE-FIXING AGREEMENT

Concerns Cited by Trade Commission Make Virtually All of Viscose Yarn.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—The Federal Trade Commission announced today it has ordered 10 corporations manufacturing substantially all of the viscose rayon yarn made in the United States to cease and desist from entering into and carrying out a price fixing combination.

The commission said it had found after "extensive hearings" that the corporations had entered into a price fixing conspiracy which increased the prices of viscose rayon yarn as well as the prices of cloth and wearing apparel made of rayon.

The companies named were: Viscose Co., New York City; Dupont Rayon Co., Inc.; Tuley-Chatham Corporation; Industrial Rayon Corporation, New York City; North American Rayon Corporation, New York City; American Enka Corporation; Skenandoo Rayon Corporation; Union Textile Co., Delaware; Rayon Co., Acme Rayon Corporation, Cleveland, O.; and the Belamco Corporation, Rocky Hill, Conn.

21 HURT WHEN AERIAL BOMB EXPLODES IN HOLIDAY CROWD

Defective Piece of Fireworks Falls to Blast Into Crowd at Indianapolis Park.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 6.—Twenty-one persons were burned last night when a defective aerial bomb rose only a few feet in the air and exploded in the midst of a crowd of men, women and children at a Fourth of July celebration at an amusement park.

Six persons were given hospital treatment. Others were trampled in a panic which followed the explosion.

Police estimated a crowd of 30,000 witnessed the fireworks.

Zero Weather at North Pole

SOVIET NORTH POLE CAMP (By radio to Moscow), July 6.—Overcast skies with a ceiling of 650 feet, southwesterly wind of 10 to 15 miles per hour, and a temperature of zero Fahrenheit prevailed here today. Visibility was five-eighths of a mile.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—With the air dark with threats of filibuster, the Roosevelt plan to re-make the Supreme Court became the unfinished business of the Senate today. The motion to this effect, made by Majority Leader Robinson of Arkansas, was unanimously adopted by a voice vote.

Filibustering tactics started as soon as Robinson made the parliamentary move of calling up the original White House bill which was sent to Congress Feb. 5. Senator Clark (Dem.), Missouri, one of the leaders of the opposition to any Roosevelt court change, made the point of no quorum despite the fact that 56 Senators were on the floor. A quorum is 49 Senators.

After 79 Senators had answered their names, the Robinson motion was adopted with no dissenting votes and the Arkansas Senator then, formally introduced the administration's compromise, the work of himself and Senators Logan of Kentucky and Hatch of New Mexico. This compromise was introduced in the Senate Thursday by Logan for the information of the Senators. At that time Robinson gave it his approval in a prepared statement.

Robinson-McNary Colloquy. Robinson served notice of the opposition that he intended to meet dilatory tactics with all the parliamentary devices at his command. It was then seemed to be a carefully staged colloquy between himself and Minority Leader McNary of Oregon, he refused to discuss the equivocal that he would put aside the court legislation so other legislation might be passed. He also declared that he would insist that the Senate be in session tomorrow, although many Senators have announced that they will be at the all-star baseball game.

Late in the afternoon the Senate recessed until 10 a. m. tomorrow. Stalling then, members could get in about three hours' work and have the afternoon to go to the All-Star baseball game, scheduled for 1:30 p. m.

In answer to McNary he said he would not object to laying aside the court proposition for any "reasonable" legislation, but added that he would not commit himself to any definite proposal.

"If a filibuster develops as threatened," he declared, "I cannot commit myself to any policy that might end the filibuster."

The majority leader said that Senators might go to the ball game tomorrow, but added that they would be subject to call in the event the Senate failed to have a quorum. As the galleries were filled with the Roosevelt and opposition camp, a "gentlemen's agreement" probably will be made.

Boy Scouts in Galleries

The Senate presented an unusual sight as the historic debate started. Half the galleries were filled with Boy Scouts in khaki and colorful neckerchiefs. They appeared to have an intense interest in the proceedings.

Robinson had barely started his opening speech, when opposition Senators began to heckle him. With all the arm-waving gestures of a campaign orator, he declared that the primary reason for the bill—the only reason—was that the Supreme Court had usurped legislative power.

"Is there anything in this bill," Borah (Rep.), Idaho, asked, "which would correct this situation?"

"There is nothing on that point," Robinson admitted, and added: "There can't be, because Congress lacks the power. But if you don't think the court has invaded the legislative field, I don't ask you to take my word for it. I ask you to take the word of the Senator from Idaho, spoken when he opposed the appointment of a great Chief Justice. At that time, the Senator from Idaho, in most eloquent words, charged that the Supreme Court had invaded the field of legislation."

Robinson undertook to explain the provisions of the substitute, paragraph by paragraph. He declared "no moral or legal reason" could be justifiably assigned for resorting to "the complicated and difficult process of constitutional amendment" in preference to the legislative process.

Pointing out that no lawyer had challenged the constitutionality of the President's plan, he said: "Manifestly it is neither necessary nor desirable to resort to the slow and difficult process of amending the Constitution if substantially the same ends may be brought about by the enactment of legislation."

Senator Burke (Dem.), Nebraska, apparently had been assigned by Robinson to undertake to explain the provisions of the substitute, paragraph by paragraph. He declared "no moral or legal reason" could be justifiably assigned for resorting to "the complicated and difficult process of constitutional amendment" in preference to the legislative process.

CLEVELAND STEEL MILLS OPEN UNDER TROOP PROTECTION

Thousand Guardsmen and 450 Police and Deputies Keep Order as Republic Employees Return.

WORKERS STONED AT NILES, WARREN

Rocks Thrown Through Automobile Glass by Demonstrators — Militia Unit at Akron.

By the Associated Press. CLEVELAND, O., July 6.—The last of "Tom Girdler's mills"—the Republic Steel Corporation's plants in Cleveland—reopened today. Troops stood guard, to enforce here, as they have in the Mahoning Valley, the "right to work and the right to strike." Extra police were on duty, and extra deputies.

Three Republic units with a total employment roll of more than 6000 men had reopening orders. A fourth unit, employing 600, canceled its plans for reopening without explanation.

A big crowd, boing in chorus, massed on a bluff overlooking the Corrigan-McKinley plant as several hundred automobile loads of non-strikers entered the company gates. Fog blanketed the area.

The crowd cheered the pickets, dimly seen on the street below. Shifts Restricted.

D. W. Jordan, chief industrial engineer, said that at 8 a. m., 755 men and women had entered the plant out of 1250 normally employed.

Pickets said they counted only 300 and that most of those were foreigners and were not counted. Jordan said the mill would operate an eight-hour shift for six months "until we can get back some of our automobile business."

"Our main producing department is all set," he continued. "You may hear that we have brought in outsiders, but when you consider that it takes four years to learn how to operate a machine, you can see that it would be impossible to bring in outsiders."

Members of the "Back-to-Work Committee and city police estimated 700 men and women of the 1700 normally employed entered the Union division plant up to 7 a. m. By automobile and on foot, the men and women quietly entered the mill gates, past a line of 12 pickets who said little but scrutinized the returning workers carefully.

One machine-gun was set up by the National Guard and some disarmed away from the mill gates. The Union plant is situated on the bank of the Cuyahoga River, not far from the center of Cleveland. The plant will operate on one eight-hour shift daily for the time being. Ordinarily there are two eight-hour shifts.

Harry Woodhead, general manager of the Truscon plant, said: "We are actually in production."

Violence at Niles, Warren. Stormier scenes were enacted at Niles and Warren, O., where several hundred union sympathizers massed along routes to Republic steel mills and threw stones at non-strikers going back to work.

Rocks smashed taxicabs, windshield at Warren, and six workers' automobiles were dented by bricks at Niles.

A brief-lived "mystery" over the mobilization of 400 National Guardsmen at Akron, O., rubric, was dissipated when officers said the troops were merely being held for duty "anywhere in Northeastern Ohio."

A purely "family matter" within the union itself was given by some officials as a possible reason for the movement of troops to Akron. The union president there had planned, he said, to have "collectors" at the Goodrich company gates today for the collection of union dues from new members. The program, however, was canceled, the union leader explaining that "other means will be used to influence members to keep dues paid up."

1500 at CIO Rally

Police estimated 1500 workers attended a Committee for Industrial Organization rally in Cleveland last night. Speakers scoffed at Republic's claim that 85 per cent of the workers in the Cleveland mills were anxious to quit the strike.

Republic, of which Girdler is chairman, now has its mills operating on every other sector of the strike front—in the Mahoning Valley, in Monroe, Mich., at Buffalo, N. Y., and at South Chicago.

MAN CONFESSES KILLING 3 GIRLS NEAR LOS ANGELES

WPA Worker Tells of Strangling Children, Who Were Lured From Park in Inglewood, Cal.

FOUR ALIENISTS EXAMINE HIM

He Helped Direct Removal of Bodies From Ravine — Once Was Dismissed as Suspect.

By the Associated Press. LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 6.—The Los Angeles County grand jury will be asked tomorrow by District Attorney Burt Fitts to indict Albert Dyer, a WPA crossing guard, for the murder of three little girls whose bodies were found in a ravine at Inglewood, a suburb, Monday of last week.

Dyer, who is 32 years old, confessed Sunday that he killed the girls after luring them from a playground. The girls were Madeline Everett, 7 years old; her sister, Melba, 9, and Jeanette Stephens, 8. They had been strangled two days before their bodies were found.

In a jail cell where she was placed for her own safety, Dyer's wife sobbed out her love for her husband.

"What did they do to him to make him confess to this," she cried. "He was a good husband. He never beat me. I love him."

Alienists Examine Prisoner. Investigators considered the possibility that another person was involved in the killings. One officer said it seemed almost impossible that one man could have committed the crime within the time limits deduced from Dyer's story.

Four alienists began mental tests of the prisoner yesterday. One of the alienists, Dr. Aaron J. Rosanoff, was present when Dyer made his statement to officers.

"All I can say now is that I heard Dyer make a lengthy statement that seems to be coherent," he said.

Dyer's wife said her husband arrived home late on the day of the killings and told her he had been delayed, but gave no further explanation. She said she did not notice blood on the blue jeans he wore, although she washed them.

A paper bag found under the body of Madeline bore the name of a drug store where Mrs. Charles R. Fish, friend of the Dyer family, said she saw him buying candy the day before the girls disappeared.

His Story of Crime.

On the morning of their death, Dyer said, he played with the three girls in the park. It was then, police asserted, he persuaded them to "hunt rabbits" in the nearby hills.

"They said their mothers didn't want them, but I kept telling them how much fun it was and finally they agreed that they would meet me," Dyer was quoted as confessing.

At the appointed hour, his story continued, "I watched the three girls coming down the road. They were dressed in bright colored clothes."

Their route lay through a bean field and down a steep dry wash. "We sat down to rest," he continued, "and I asked Madeline to come with me up the draw a bit and see if we could scare out a bunny. She came right along and the other two girls agreed to stay behind."

"When out of sight of the others, I reached out and grabbed Madeline by the neck and choked her to death. When I thought she was dead, I knotted a rope around her neck to make sure."

"Then I singled out Jeanette," the story continued, "I told her we'd trapped a rabbit and said we wanted her to help us. Mabel wanted to come along, too, but I told her to stay here and I'd catch another bunny for her."

One Girl Fought. "With my hands I choked Jeanette to death and bound her neck with a rope. I wanted to make sure she'd stay dead."

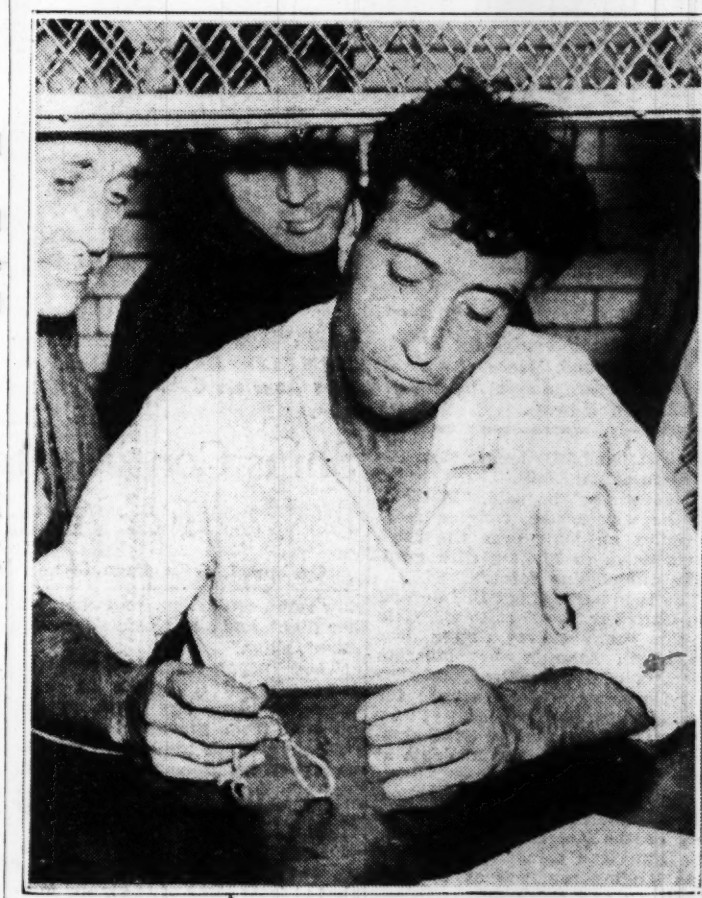

Unaware her sister and her chum had been murdered only a few feet from her, Melba Everett waited the man's return.

"She went with me without question," the confession continued. "When I began choking her, she tried to scream. She fought. She almost got away from me. Pretty soon she grew quiet. I knotted a rope around her neck, too."

"I knelt down and kissed their faces," Dyer was quoted, "after I killed them. Then I prayed to God."

VAN DEVANTER THINKS ROOSEVELT ASKS FOR COURT CAN RIDE STORM $400,000,000 SAVING

Ex-Justice Says People Are Not Going to Give Up Constitution.

By the Associated Press. PHILADELPHIA, July 6.—The Philadelphia Bulletin, in a copyrighted dispatch from a staff correspondent at Simpsonville, Md., today quoted former Justice Willis Van Devanter as saying that "the Supreme Court has weathered storms before, and I am sure it will weather the present one."

"And when the court has weathered this crisis," he added, "the country will proceed in the prosperous way it did before."

"The people of the country," the former Justice was further quoted, "have been greatly benefited and blessed by the Constitution, and I don't think they are going to give it up. And they cannot well do so without surrendering many of the liberties and advantages they have under it."

Mr. Van Devanter also was quoted as saying "the court in the last session did not reverse itself any more than it has at times in the past."

The former Justice said his resignation and the action of the Senate Judiciary Committee on the President's Supreme Court bill were "only coincidental."

"I had intended first to retire five years ago," he said, "but I stayed on. Increasingly I became convinced in my conclusion that I owed it to myself to quit."

"It was no surprise that I did that. The surprise lay only in the time that I did it. It was a decision that was not reached overnight. I don't think I was too old for the job."

MRS. MADELINE ASTOR DICK'S HUSBAND SENTENCED TO JAIL

Fugitive Pleads Guilty to Three-Year-Old Speeding Charge in New York.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, July 6.—Enzo Fiermonte, Italian pugilist and husband of the socially prominent Mrs. Madeleine Force Astor Dick, was sentenced today to five days in prison when he pleaded guilty to a three-year-old speeding charge.

He explained "important business" in California prevented him from answering the traffic summons in 1934. Magistrate Gustav W. M. Wieboldt then reminded Fiermonte he had seen him at a fight in New York a month ago.

"Nobody can come to this country and disregard its laws," said the Magistrate. "I am going to teach you to respect the law and this five-day prison term will give you time to consider the matter."

Fiermonte was arrested Friday.

TWO FLYING BOATS FINISH ATLANTIC SURVEY JOURNEY

East-Bound Craft Covers 1995 Miles From Newfoundland to Ireland in 12 Hours, 40 Min.

WEST-BOUND TAKES 15 HOURS, 9 MIN.

Purpose of Trips Is to Prepare for Regular Passenger and Cargo Service Across the Ocean.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 6.—Two flying boats landed on opposite sides of the North Atlantic today, completing twin survey flights for trans-oceanic passenger and cargo service. Each craft flew 1995 miles.

The British Imperial Airways' Caledonia, carrying five aviators from Foyles, Irish Free State, landed at Botwood, Newfoundland, and the Pan-American Clipper III, carrying eight from Botwood, landed at Foyles. The two craft passed shortly before 4 a. m., Eastern time. The Pan-American Clipper III alighted in Ireland at 4:50 a. m., Eastern time.

The Caledonia landed in Newfoundland at 5:06 a. m., Eastern time. The Pan-American Clipper III alighted in Ireland at 4:50 a. m., Eastern time.

Boat Beats Schedule. The Caledonia completed the 1995-mile trip in 12 hours and nine minutes. Capt. A. S. Wilcockson, the skipper, had predicted the Caledonia would make the crossing in 16 to 17 hours.

The Pan-American Clipper III under Capt. Harold E. Gray, alighted on the River Shannon after a trip of 12 hours and 40 minutes.

The roar of the Clipper's engines was heard before it was seen by the hundreds waiting to greet it at the Quayside.

The coastline had been practically blotted from view of the ship by a swirling mist. But rain clouds cleared away and the Clipper flew over Monument Hill to journey's end. A waiting launch used a multi-time signal fire of red and green to give the Clipper landing directions.

The Clipper circled over Foyles Island, then reduced speed and made a graceful landing.

Capt. Gray was smiling as he went ashore to receive the greetings of President Eamon de Valera of the Irish Free State, Sean Lemass, Minister of Commerce and Industry, and officials of the British Air Ministry and Imperial Airways.

"Enjoyable Trip." Gray said the flight was a "pleasant, enjoyable trip." The worst part, he said, was when the plane encountered low clouds on approaching Ireland.

The crowd good-naturedly heckled a Customs officer who boarded the clipper to inspect luggage. His formal report said "no contraband."

The Clipper crew, wearing sou'westers over their uniforms, stood talking to De Valera in a driving rain. Although they long had been asleep, they presented a smart appearance. All had shaved before landing.

Gray, speaking through a microphone, told his quayside audience the flight "was a rather small hop compared with the Pacific runs we have been making for two years—12 hours more or less is just a nice little joy ride."

"We had a glorious night," he continued, "and for the first time in my life I saw the Arctic light on the horizon the whole night long. It was the longest experience of unbroken clouds that I've ever seen."

"We were flying at times at 10,000 feet and although there were clouds beneath us we had the sun shining brightly nearly all the way after daybreak."

"We had a very nice dinner last night consisting of celery, olives, soup, salad, steak and strawberries and cream."

Viscount Swinton, British Secretary of Air, cables congratulations from London both to the clipper and the Caledonia at Botwood.

Comparative Speeds. Officials of Imperial Airways estimated that the Caledonia traveled about 1990 miles at an average speed of 132 miles an hour; the clipper 1995 miles at an average of 156 miles an hour. The clipper had 900 gallons of gasoline left.

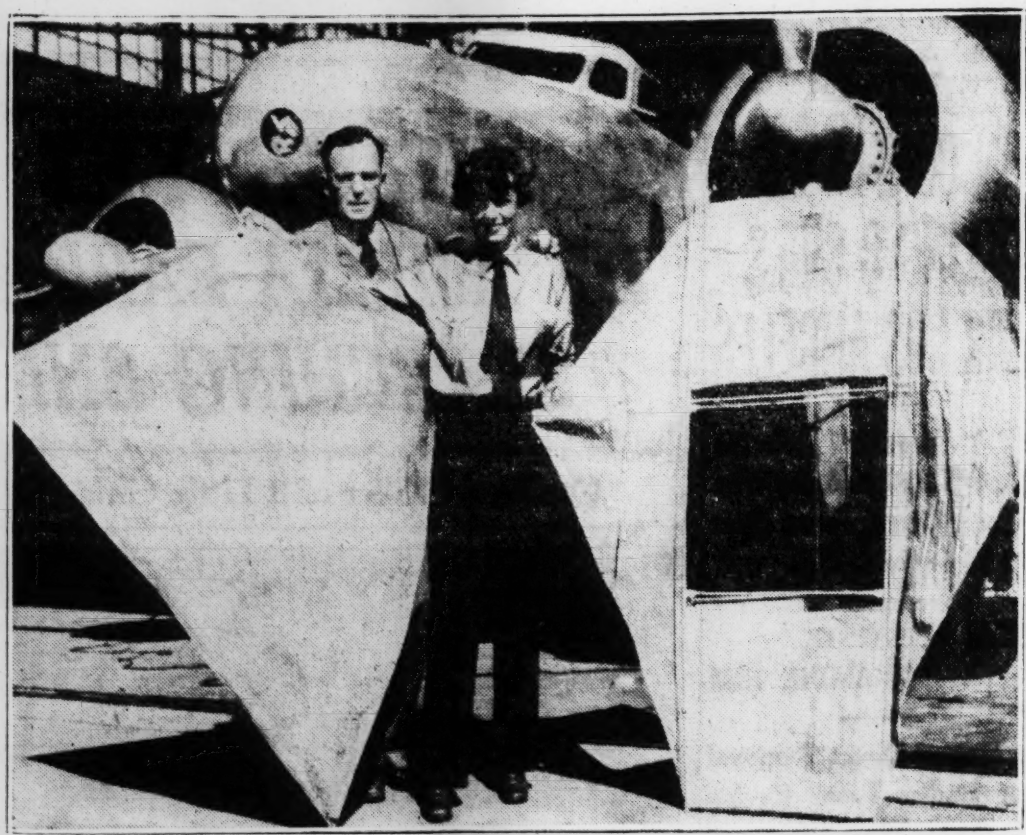

As the Caledonia wheeled over Botwood, the boat straightened out over the river, heading downstream into a light wind and down perfectly five minutes after first appearing over the town. It turned slowly and taxied toward the landing float.

Engineer Frank Murphy immediately started inspection of the plane in preparation for the last legs of its flight—to Montreal and Port Washington, N. Y. If the plans are in good order it will fly to Montreal Thursday.

"It was a great trip," Capt. Wilcockson said, "although the weather conditions were not very brilliant. We had low clouds and it was overcast with a drizzle for about three-quarters of the way across. Then it cleared."

While the clipper followed the great circle, Capt. Wilcockson said, the Caledonia flew the "Rhumb line" which, although straight on

The twin surveys put Britain and the United States first in the field of this year's survey flights over the North Atlantic by aviation interests of four nations. France and Germany are preparing for similar trips.

The Clipper is due at Southampton Thursday and the Caledonia at Port Washington Friday.

Pan American may, on the return trip, explore the southern route by way of the Azores and Bermuda. The American company has alternate landing facilities at Charleston, S. C., and Baltimore.

The South Atlantic is being flown regularly with mail and cargo, but without passengers. Regular service is maintained between the United States and the Orient with the liner Hindenburg, Germany maintained an air route over the North Atlantic during the spring, summer and early fall.

Insurgent Planes Bomb Area Around Valencia: Three Killed. VALENCIA, Spain, July 6.—Insurgent planes bombed the countryside around Valencia yesterday, killing three persons and wounding 15, but did not attack this Government seat.

They flew over Valencia twice but remained at an altitude too high for accurate bombing, apparently fearing the anti-aircraft guns which were turned on them. Observers said one plane was hit but was able to continue its flight.

Government planes, meanwhile, were active on the Cordoba front in Southern Spain. The Defense Ministry said they fired an artillery depot near Cordoba, setting it afire, and machine-gunned the rebel lines at nine points.

British Monetary Bill Approved. By the Associated Press. LONDON, July 6.—Royal approval was given to the Government's Exchange Equalization account bill today after passage by the House of Lords. new radio equipment somewhere on her flight, and also Noonan's known adaptability."

They suggested Noonan may have adapted the radio to work when the plane was on the water, possibly from spare batteries.

Their attitude indicated the Itasca, the Navy mine sweeper Swan, and the British freighter Mooby might continue searching north of Howland.

None of the observers doubted that at least some of the many messages purporting to come from Miss Earhart's radio were authentic.

"There is reason to believe," Putnam commented at the San Francisco Coast Guard station where he listened to reports, that some of the half-intelligible messages were actually from his wife.

It was "impossible," he said, for this to be correct if she were adrift at sea.

The San Francisco Coast Guard reported that a computation on the basis of a bearing taken from yesterday's radio signals by Pan-American Airways and Miss Earhart's last known message, "Give indication of her position in the Phoenix group."

Naval officers said they thought the Colorado would change its course in accordance with this message.

They also hinted that when the United States aircraft carrier Lexington and an accompanying fleet of four destroyers along the search they will swing to the Phoenix group. They are on the way from San Diego, Cal., via Honolulu, where they will refuel.

American naval officers hazarded no guess as to what course the Japanese airplane carrier, Kamo, speeding from the South Pacific to join the hunt, would pursue.

The battleship Colorado neared Howland after a 1500-mile journey southward from Honolulu to send airplanes into the search and replenish the dwindling fuel and water supplies of the Itasca.

The message which suddenly converged the search 281 miles north of Howland was heard at 6:12 a. m. (St. Louis time) yesterday. It was fragmentary, faint, and partly blotted out with static. Three operators at Wakeup Naval Station in Hawaii pieced it together as follows:

"Two hundred eighty-one north Howland... call KHAQ... the signature of the Earhart plane)... beyond north... don't hold with us much longer... above water... shut off"

Searching agencies interpreted the message—if it came from the missing pair—indicating varying things, that the plane was sinking, that radio transmission was failing because of weakening batteries, that the plane was floating, and that gasoline necessary to turn the right motor and furnish electricity was near exhaustion.

As the Itasca changed its course to go to the position, it radioed here "official information indicates that Earhart is down 281 miles north of Howland."

The speedy little vessel reached the area about 7 o'clock last night, and coast guard authorities in San Francisco estimated it was about 30 minutes ahead of the slower Swan.

International co-operation was volunteered by Japan. That nation instructed all its ships and shore radio operators to keep watch for possible new clues, and Putnam said he had received, through the newspaper Nichi Nichi a telephoned offer of the Japanese Government to assign warships to the hunt. He said acceptance or rejection of that offer could be left to the United States Naval authorities.

Throughout the night the Itasca and Swan patrolled the sea north of Howland, using their searchlights. The method of procedure was to make long sweeps in one direction for 10 miles or more, then turn at right angles and proceed for a similar distance before veering again.

The hour and 45 minutes earlier the Earhart plane had signaled: "About 100 miles out."

Scores of Japanese fighting boats and other vessels were rushing to the Marshall Islands and other areas in the Pacific Ocean near tiny Howland Island. The Government had radioed an appeal to all Japanese vessels in the South Sea to join United States naval vessels in the search.

Professional and amateur radio operators throughout Japan kept constant vigil for a signal from the missing flyer, believing that she may be marooned on one of the Phoenix group of islands south of Howland Island.

Tanker Ordered to Refuel Aircraft Carrier on Earhart Search. WASHINGTON, July 6.—The Navy ordered the tanker Lexington today to proceed to Lahaina Roads, 75 miles southeast of Honolulu to refuel the Aircraft Carrier Lexington, now steaming to Howland Island to search for Amelia Earhart.

The Lexington reported this morning she expected to reach Lahaina at 7 p. m. (St. Louis time). Thursday. Her commanding officer said she was averaging 27 knots.

Putnam agreed with the expressed belief of Pan American Airways radio operators that direction finder bearings indicated the supposed code replies and signals from the Earhart plane. The Pan American operator said the bearing ran directly through the group and said the plane might be down in the vicinity of Gardner and McKean islands, between 150 and 200 miles southwest of Howland.

COMMITTEE TO DECIDE TODAY ON INVESTIGATING ROOSEVELT

Chairman Doughton Sees No Reason for Hearing More Witnesses on Tax Avoidance.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Chairman Doughton (Dem.), North Carolina, said the Senate-House committee on tax evasion and avoidance would decide today whether to investigate President Roosevelt's tax returns.

Fish (Rep.), New York, who represents Mr. Roosevelt's congressional district, has charged that the Chief Executive used revenue loopholes and deducted losses from his "farm" at Hyde Park, N. Y., in making out tax returns. Fish asked the committee to inquire into his allegations.

The President took reporters Sunday on a personally conducted tour of his 500 acres at Hyde Park, emphasizing that the tract was not a farm but a forestry project from which he expected eventually to make a profit, except for interest and taxes, on the sale of Christmas trees and commercial timber.

Doughton said he saw no need of calling additional witnesses before the committee started work on its recommendations for closing legal loopholes which the Treasury reports have been used to deprive the Government of revenue.

while it still was in the air, was at 8:44 a. m. Howland time (8:14 p. m. St. Louis time) Friday. The Coast Guard disclosed that this message said, "We are on the line of position 157-337. We are now running north and south."

Forty-seven minutes earlier, Miss Earhart had radioed, "We are circling, but cannot see island; cannot hear you."

Washington was told by the Itasca's commander that as the Earhart plane flew toward Howland, the flyers neither acknowledged nor complied with repeated instructions from the Itasca to transmit on 500 kilocycles.

The Itasca explained to them that it was essential they use the 500-kilocycle band in order that the cutter's direction finder could function. The finder could not cut in on the higher frequency band.

Later, the Itasca said: "A high frequency direction finder was set up on Howland Island," and the Coast Guard manned it throughout Friday night, but never was able to secure bearings due to Earhart's very brief transmission and her use of voice."

The message that Miss Earhart and Noonan were "running north and south" followed by about an hour a transmission from the plane saying: "We must be on you, but cannot see you. Gas is running low. Have been unable to reach you by radio. We are flying at 1000 feet."

DONNELLY GARMENT CO HAS UNION ENJOINED

U. S. Court Forbids 196 Defendants to Interfere With Kansas City Business.

By the Associated Press. KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 6.—United States District Judge Merrill E. Otis granted a temporary injunction yesterday barring 196 defendants, including national officers of the International Ladies Garment Workers' Union, from interfering with the business of the Donnelly Garment Co.

The application for the order was sworn to by Mrs. Nell Quinlan Reed, wife of former United States Senator James A. Reed. It set forth a series of alleged offenses against the company and reviewed efforts of the union to organize Donnelly workers.

The company asserted it had made commitments "for hundreds of thousands of dollars in raw materials" and "any curtailment, interruption or restraint" would result in heavy loss.

The union appropriated $100,000 at its recent Atlantic City convention for organization work among the firm's employees.

Donnelly's president, the defendants are David Dubinsky, international president of the union, 22 members of the union executive board, Meyer Perlestein, southwest regional union president, and 150 members of three Kansas City union locals.

The temporary order was served on Perlestein at St. Louis. Judge Otis set July 10 for hearing on an application for a permanent injunction.

450 Police Work With Troops. Precautions against violence were the most extensive seen in Cleveland in many years. In addition to the 1000 militiamen, there were 75 Sheriff's deputies and 384 policemen—one-fifth of the police force—assigned to strike duty.

The greatest concentration of armed power was at the Corrigan-McKinney plant.

Damich assured police that the strikers would be orderly. None would be armed, he said, and picketing would be confined to 12 men at each entrance, as required by the Sheriff's orders.

Damich warned the strikers last night to "keep your automobiles locked, so company men can't plant firearms in them." He cautioned particularly against violence, and he urged all strikers to keep their heads pointing out that there are always "one or two agitators" who counsel violence, and that such agitators should be ignored.

Federal Judges Pick Fortified City Official to Succeed the Late J. A. Hope.

Elmer E. Percy, former Assistant City Counselor, was appointed today to the Federal Court position of Referee in Bankruptcy, made vacant by the death June 28 of John A. Hope.

The appointment was made by the three judges of the District Court here, Judges Charles B. Davis, George H. Moore and John C. Collet, and was announced by Judge Davis as senior judge.

The appointment leaves the selection of the appointee to the senior judge, as the late Referee Hope was selected by Judge Charles B. Davis, the senior judge of the District Court.

Percy, 58 years old, is the brother of former Circuit Judge Claude O. Percy. He is a native of Oskawville, Missouri, was educated at Marionville College and the University of Missouri. His course at the university was interrupted by the Spanish-American War, which he served as a member of the Fifth Missouri Volunteer Infantry. He received his law degree in 1904, and was admitted to the bar that year.

His first law connection here was with Klein & Hough. From 1909 to 1914, under Mayors Krelman and Kiel, he was an assistant city counselor. He has since been associated with Luther Ely Smith in the firm of Smith & Percy. During the World War period, he served on the Twenty-third War Draft Exemption Board.

The appointment is for a two-year term. The office is conducted on a fee basis.

DODGE TRUCK PLANT STRIKE

Dispute Over Non-Union Worker Closes Detroit Factory.

By the Associated Press. DETROIT, July 6.—Chrysler Corporation's Dodge truck plant here suspended operations today after some members of the United Automobile Workers of America went on strike in protest against a non-union worker. About 2100 employees were made idle.

H. L. Wecker, Chrysler vice president, said the union men told the plant manager they would strike unless the non-union man was removed. John Duffert, union trustee at the plant, denied there was a dispute over a non-union worker and asserted the closing was due to a shortage of materials.

Knocked Down 12 Times. Frankenstein, who directed the organization of the Chrysler plant, was knocked down 12 times. His assistants pulled his coat over his head, kicked and pummeled him. After he was beaten, photographers were permitted to take pictures.

In his complaint to the Labor Board, the union dwelt upon the assault and charged that union sympathizers had been threatened for four months. It alleged that the Ford company circulated anti-union petitions among employees and supported a "company union" known as the Ford Brotherhood of America. It also alleged discrimination against union members.

The Labor Board summarized the allegations in citing the company for violation of the Wagner Act.

At the outset of the hearing today, Louis J. Colombo, attorney for the company, repeated the company's answer to the complaint. He alleged the Labor Board had no jurisdiction, since the employees accused of beating the union leaders were not employed in a department engaged in interstate commerce, and asserted that they acted in "self-defense."

Counsel for the Ford Brotherhood sought permission to intervene. It was announced a ruling would be made on the application tomorrow.

Dismissal Plea Overruled. The move to dismiss the charges was promptly overruled, and Labor Board and union attorneys introduced a mass of documentary evidence to show the national and international ramifications of the Ford Motor Co.

This material emphasized the interstate nature of its business, including lists of dealers in various states and passenger car registrations all over the country.

One of the exhibits was a booklet entitled "Souvenir of a trip through the River Rouge plant." When it was introduced, Frankenstein observed to the writer: "My souvenir was a right to the jaw and kick in the pants."

Maurice Sugar, attorney for the union, presented maps and records to establish ownership of the property where the assault occurred. The union contends that some of the fighting occurred on a public highway.

Examiner Lindsay recessed the hearing until 2 o'clock in order to visit the scene, 13 miles from downtown Detroit. Most of the fighting took place at the end of a pedestrian overpass, surmounting a street and leading to the plant gate.

"Keep Off" Sign Disappears. Testimony was introduced at the afternoon session that signs were seen yesterday on the overpass reading "private property, no littering to be passed out at any time. Ford Motor Co.," but they had disappeared today.

Homer Martin, president of the U. A. W., said the union had not called off its plan to distribute literature tomorrow at the gates of the Ford Dearborn plant, and that 50 distributors would start out at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Two investigators for the La Follette committee were among the spectators. The attorney for the Chrysler Motor Co. also was there. The hearing room, which accommodates about 150 spectators, was crowded. Men and women stood five deep along the wall. More than 40 witnesses have been summoned to support the charges. The Ford company has not indicated whether it will offer testimony.

Assault Warrant Issued. An assault warrant naming 15 persons and the Ford Motor Co. as a corporation was issued just after the board opened its hearing.

Common Pleas Judge Ralph W. Liddy, who conducted the grand jury investigation into the May 26 "fight" at the Dearborn plant, recommended the warrant, which charges assault with intent to do great bodily harm.

Everett Moore, of the Ford service department, which polices the plant, eight other Ford employees and six other persons were named in the warrant.

Among them were Warshon Sarkisian, who has engaged in professional wrestling; Oscar Jones, a boxer who was a professional boxer under the name of Jackie Young; and Theodore Gries, once a wrestling referee.

BROTHERHOOD SEEKS RIGHT TO INTERVENE

Examiner Visits Scene of May 26 Fight at Plant Gate; Assault Warrants Issued for 15.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Mich., July 6.—The groundwork for testimony to be presented to the National Labor Relations Board concerning the employer-employee relationships of the Ford Motor Co. was laid today at the outset of a hearing before Trial Examiner John T. Lindsay.

At the conclusion of the hearing, Lindsay attempted to distribute a transcript of the testimony to the board. Should the board see fit to do so, it may issue a "cease and desist order" against the company, directing it to abandon whatever labor practices the board may find are unfair.

Should such a ruling be made and disregarded, the board may turn to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for an enforcement order. It has no enforcement power itself.

The present inquiry, the first to be directed against a major automobile company, is based primarily on an assault May 26 at the Ford River Rouge plant upon officers of the United Automobile Workers of America.

Richard T. Frankenstein, director of the CIO campaign to unionize Ford workers, and Walter Reuther, president of a local chapter of the U. A. W., were beaten by a group of men working for the Ford company in a dispute over the union's right to form part of the Ford "service" force.

Funeral services were held yesterday in Eldorado, Ill., for Mrs. Wayne K. Martin, 23 years old, who died Sunday at City Hospital of burns suffered June 26 in an explosion of a river launch at the North Shore Boat Harbor, 9400 Riverview drive. She was the third person to die as a result of the explosion and subsequent fire.

Her sister-in-law, Mrs. Marjorie Wilson, 21, a bride of three months, was burned to death. Her mother-in-law, Mrs. Guy S. Martin, 47, succumbed the following day. Wayne K. Martin, an electrical engineer, 424 East Big Bend road, Kirkwood, was seriously burned about the body and is still a patient at City Hospital.

The explosion came immediately after Martin and the three women passengers had stopped the boat at the fuel gasoline barge in the harbor and filled the fuel tank. Martin had just started the engine when flames broke out over the boat. Mrs. Wilson and her husband, Dr. William Wilson, lived with Mrs. Guy S. Martin at 4028 Magnolia place.

$3,208.50 IN DELINQUENT TAXES PAID, BAUMANN SAYS

Amount Still Far Short of Goal Set by Mayor to Avoid Special Assessments.

Collections of delinquent general taxes in the period of complete remission of penalties, beginning June 10 and ending last Wednesday, amounted to $3,208.50. Collector William F. Baumann announced today.

This was 21.8 per cent of the $14,662,124 in taxes delinquent at the time the penalties were set aside. Mayor Dickmann has said that he would approve four pending special tax bills unless the receipts of delinquent taxes since June 10 reached $7,000,000. He has until July 18 to sign or veto the measures.

Seventy-five per cent of the penalties will be remitted in July and August. The Collector has not calculated receipts since Wednesday, which was the last day of June, but it was indicated that so far they have been comparatively small. The Board of Aldermen will meet again Thursday, hoping to adjourn for the summer, unless there is a new question raised in the movement to obtain more revenue for the city.

Between March 1, the start of the Collector's fiscal year, and June 10, with ordinary penalties in force, delinquent tax receipts were $694,859.

The move to dismiss the charges was promptly overruled, and Labor Board and union attorneys introduced a mass of documentary evidence to show the national and international ramifications of the Ford Motor Co.

This material emphasized the interstate nature of its business, including lists of dealers in various states and passenger car registrations all over the country.

One of the exhibits was a booklet entitled "Souvenir of a trip through the River Rouge plant." When it was introduced, Frankenstein observed to the writer: "My souvenir was a right to the jaw and kick in the pants."

Maurice Sugar, attorney for the union, presented maps and records to establish ownership of the property where the assault occurred. The union contends that some of the fighting occurred on a public highway.

Examiner Lindsay recessed the hearing until 2 o'clock in order to visit the scene, 13 miles from downtown Detroit. Most of the fighting took place at the end of a pedestrian overpass, surmounting a street and leading to the plant gate.

"Keep Off" Sign Disappears. Testimony was introduced at the afternoon session that signs were seen yesterday on the overpass reading "private property, no littering to be passed out at any time. Ford Motor Co.," but they had disappeared today.

Homer Martin, president of the U. A. W., said the union had not called off its plan to distribute literature tomorrow at the gates of the Ford Dearborn plant, and that 50 distributors would start out at 6 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Two investigators for the La Follette committee were among the spectators. The attorney for the Chrysler Motor Co. also was there. The hearing room, which accommodates about 150 spectators, was crowded. Men and women stood five deep along the wall. More than 40 witnesses have been summoned to support the charges. The Ford company has not indicated whether it will offer testimony.

Assault Warrant Issued. An assault warrant naming 15 persons and the Ford Motor Co. as a corporation was issued just after the board opened its hearing.

Common Pleas Judge Ralph W. Liddy, who conducted the grand jury investigation into the May 26 "fight" at the Dearborn plant, recommended the warrant, which charges assault with intent to do great bodily harm.

Everett Moore, of the Ford service department, which polices the plant, eight other Ford employees and six other persons were named in the warrant.

Among them were Warshon Sarkisian, who has engaged in professional wrestling; Oscar Jones, a boxer who was a professional boxer under the name of Jackie Young; and Theodore Gries, once a wrestling referee.

Robinson said with a smile. "The Senator never makes a nuisance, nature does it for him."

HEADLESS MAN TENTH VICTIM OF MYSTERY KILLINGS

Torso Discovered in River at Cleveland—Sixth of Sex So Killed in Two Years.

OTHERS MURDERED WERE WOMEN

Skeleton of Ninth Person Decapitated Found Near Same Spot Less Than Month Ago.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., July 6.—The headless body of a man, described by Chief Detective Inspector Joseph Sweeney as the tenth victim of similar murders here was taken from the Cuyahoga River near a railroad bridge here today.

Inspector Sweeney said the torso was discovered by two National Guardsmen, in Cleveland for strike duty at the Republic Steel Corporation plants. They were Capt. Robert F. Adams and Capt. Robert Stewart, both of the 147th Ohio Infantry.

The Detective Inspector said that the head of the victim had been severed cleanly as in all of the previous killings. The appearance of the body indicated to him, he said, that the killer who has been committing murders in Cleveland for more than two years had taken another victim.

Long Record of Killings. The skeleton of the ninth victim of the murderer, a Negro woman about 35 years old, was found less than a month ago under a Cuyahoga River bridge not far from the spot where the torso was found today.

Today's victim was the sixth man. Four women have been decapitated and dismembered in the series of killings.

The first torso, that of a woman, was found Sept. 5, 1934 on the shore of Lake Erie.

Coroner S. R. Gerber, after an examination of the body, said "this man has been carved up just like the others."

Body Out to Pieces. Dr. Gerber said the victim was a powerful man, weighing between 180 and 200 pounds. He had been dead about two days, the Coroner said.

The arms and legs of the victim had been severed and the torso cut into two pieces. One arm and the left thigh also were found in the river.

Police said the parts of the body were churned up in the oily river by a passing freighter. The two guardsmen, detailed on the shore of the river saw the pieces and called coast guards who brought them to the morgue.

No Motive Established. Only two of the 10 torso victims—a man and a woman—have been identified. No motive for the killings has been established.

Many persons have been taken into custody and questioned concerning the killings, but no clew ever has been uncovered.

The body of the one identified woman victim was found in two bushel baskets on the edge of the downtown district and not far from the Kingsbury Run district where several of the killings took place. She was identified by police as Mrs. Florence Polillo, once arrested in a vice raid.

The one man identified was named by police as Edward Andras, 28 years old. His body was found with that of an unidentified man in the Kingsbury Run area in September, 1935.

Police were unable to make any headway on the killing or discover any reason for the killing.

to take their little souls to heaven and forgive me."

Made Suggestions to Police. Dyer had been employed by the WPA to guard children at a street crossing near Centinela Park in Inglewood.

On the Sunday after the girls disappeared, Dyer offered suggestions to authorities. On the next day, after four Boy Scouts found the bodies in the ravine, Dyer was among the first to reach the scene of the crime. He helped direct removal of the bodies.

He was taken into custody Sunday morning. He had been questioned, as a routine procedure, early last week and dismissed as a suspect. Friday night, however, he sought out authorities with the remark: "I heard you were looking for me."

After that, he was shadowed until his arrest. Fitts said Dyer broke down and confessed after several hours of grilling. A threat to turn him over to incensed Inglewood citizens, Fitts related, was the immediate factor which impelled him to confess.

Fitts and Sheriff Eugene Bischoff gave Dyer an opportunity to repudiate his confession, but they said he lifted his right hand and declared:

"Before my God, I swear I killed those little girls."

"The Senator cannot do that,"

"I will say," replied the urbane Arizona, "that I think the framers of the Constitution had in mind that when a Judge began to slide into a graceful senility, and refused to resign or retire, Congress could at least give the court some relief."

Rearrested, Suspected of Larceny

ALLEGED SELLER OF STOLEN CARS HELD ON NEW CHARGE

Eugene Tebeau, Ex-Convict, Rearrested on Suspicion of Grand Larceny.

Eugene Tebeau, former convict, under $7500 bond on charges of selling stolen automobiles, was rearrested today and booked at Police Headquarters as suspected of grand larceny, which will require a new and probably larger bond.

He was held also for the Department of Justice under a Federal warrant charging him with interstate transportation of a stolen automobile.

He told Chief of Detectives John J. Carroll that 49 automobiles sold by a used automobile agency which he operated at 4619 Delmar boulevard and which police reported were stolen cars had been bought by him in legitimate deals. He did not know they had been stolen, he said.

Tebeau has served a penitentiary sentence for automobile theft and has been arrested 54 times in the last 10 years.

the opposition to heckle the majority leader. When he asked whether Robinson would answer a question, the Arkansas replied:

"I shall be glad to yield for a question with the understanding that the Senator is not engaging in a filibuster."

"I shall have to leave that to the Senator's own judgment," Burke replied.

Burke continued his heckling tactics to the end of the Robinson address and so annoyed the speaker that Robinson refused to yield, saying he would answer no more questions by the Nebraska.

Senator Wheeler (Dem.) of Montana stalked into the Senate chamber during the Robinson address. He had returned from a conference with the President. Taking note of a leader of the opposition, Robinson said he was sure that in the end the opponents of the bill would yield and permit a vote.

"And it may surprise you," he said, speaking directly at Wheeler "but I can stay here as long as the Senator from Montana."

Hopes for Resignations. Robinson frankly admitted that he hoped enactment of the court bill would force the resignation of Justices over 75 years old, saying that he would not regard it any more of a national calamity than when other Justices had retired at 70 years.

"There is and there has been," he said, "a feeling in the country that men are not always conscious of the time when they have passed the climax of their usefulness. It is well illustrated in politics. One who has served long and well is seldom conscious of his failing powers and keeps on running for office, running and running and running until everyone gets tired of him and until some other man passes him. He beats him for office."

Ashurst Takes Up Discussion. Chairman Ashurst of the Judiciary Committee was even franker than Robinson. Robinson had yielded to allow him to make a short discourse on the history of the Constitution. Burke asked why the size of the Supreme Court had purposely been left out of the Constitution.

"I will say," replied the urbane Arizona, "that I think the framers of the Constitution had in mind that when a Judge began to slide into a graceful senility, and refused to resign or retire, Congress could at least give the court some relief."

Burke interrupted again. Burke continued to interrupt Robinson and at one point said he was afraid he was making a nuisance of himself.

Robinson said with a smile. "The Senator never makes a nuisance, nature does it for him."

Burke observed that as far as he could make out from Robinson's remarks, that the majority leader took the position that since the Supreme Court had at times gone outside its own functions, it would be proper and legitimate for Congress to make over the court to see that it did not happen again.

"That is not a very bad statement of my position," Robinson conceded. "It is not entirely accurate, but the thought does appeal to me that if the judiciary trespasses on the jurisdiction of the legislative department, Congress has the right—yes, it may be the duty of the legislative branch—to exercise such powers as it possesses to prevent that usurpation of authority, and the Senator from Nebraska and any other Senator may make the most of that admission."

GIRL, 17, ACCUSED OF KILLING ANOTHER

Victim Shot in Quarrel Between Two Women and Their Daughters.

By the Associated Press.

COUSHATTA, La., July 6.—Jessie Pepper, 17 years old, was in jail today awaiting a Coroner's investigation of charges she shot another girl to death in a quarrel stirred by neighboring gossip.

The girl refused to make a detailed statement concerning the fatal shooting yesterday of May Elvin Allen, 17, in a quarrel between the two girls and their mothers. She surrendered to Sheriff Floyd Jones of Red River parish a few minutes after the shooting and she was charged with murder.

She described the quarrel, which the Sheriff said dated back to a "grudge of two or three months standing." She told officers that all the two women and two girls engaged in a scuffle that led to the shooting.

The Sheriff said he thought the trouble grew out of "some talk about one of the girls."

The Pepper girl's informal statement, the Sheriff said, differed somewhat from a statement made by Mrs. H. H. Allen, the dead girl's mother, to Coroner W. E. Wilkinson. The Coroner said Mrs. Allen told him she and her daughter encountered Mrs. Pepper in a pasture on a plantation north of Coushatta, where they had gone to look for cows, and that Mrs. Pepper was armed with a .38 caliber revolver.

The fight, Mrs. Allen told Dr. Wilkinson, started between the two women. She told the Coroner she succeeded in getting the pistol from Mrs. Pepper but that Jessie Pepper took the pistol from her and struck her on the head with it.

Dr. Wilkinson quoted Mrs. Allen as saying the Pepper girl fired once at her, the bullet going wild, then shot her daughter in the chest, walked over to where the girl had fallen and fired another bullet into her abdomen. She died in a few minutes.

The Pepper girl told Sheriff Jones there had been a dispute Friday in which, she said, Mrs. Allen and her daughter slapped her and struck her on the head.

Miss Ruby Carmen Succumbs to Burns Suffered in Wheeling (Ill.) Accident.

Funeral services for Miss Ruby Carmen, 3870A Arsenal street, a chorus girl, who was fatally injured Sunday when her night clothing caught fire in a hotel room at Wheeling, Ill., will be held Friday afternoon at the Wacker-Heldelie mortuary, 3534 Gravois avenue, with interment in Sunset Burial Park.

Miss Carmen was in Wheeling as a member of a traveling floor show unit. Her clothing apparently became ignited when she fell asleep while smoking a cigarette, and she was taken to Cook County Hospital, Chicago, after her cries for help awakened her roommate, Miss Vera Richter, 4022 West Loughborough avenue, a member of the same troupe. She died 10 hours later.

Miss Carmen, 23 years old, had been a professional dancer since she was graduated from Roosevelt High School in 1933. Besides being a member of the Municipal Theater Opera chorus in 1935, she had danced in several theaters and night clubs in St.

ROOSEVELT'S PUBLIC PAPERS TO BE PUBLISHED IN SPRING

Five Volumes to Show Development of His Social and Economic Ideas, White House Says.

ABOARD ROOSEVELT TRAIN EN ROUTE TO WASHINGTON, July 6.—Development of President Roosevelt's social and economic philosophy through the past decade will be traced in five volumes of his public papers, to be published early next spring, White House officials announced today.

The President has completed arrangements with Random House, it was announced, to publish the volumes, containing public papers, messages, proclamations, and speeches covering the period from his first campaign for Governor of New York in 1928 to his second presidential inauguration.

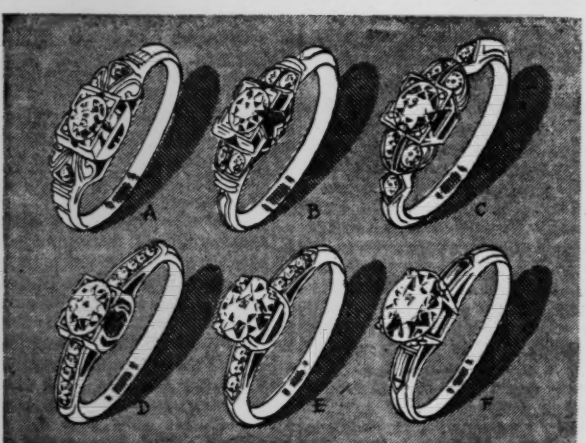

The President will compile the volumes including introduction and explanatory notes, during the summer with the help of Justice Samuel I. Rosenman of the New York State Supreme Court, who was his counsel when he was Governor.

The first volume will cover the President's two terms as Governor, and the other four will deal with his first term in the White House. Supplementary volumes will be published annually for the next four years covering the second presidential term. It was said the purpose of the selected gubernatorial papers would be to show the continuity of Mr. Roosevelt's social and economic philosophy as expressed both in Albany and Washington.

14 Hurt Getting Out of Car Affire, BUFFALO, July 6.—Fire burst out in a trolley car on Main street here last night and police reported 14 passengers suffered cuts and lacerations in smothering their way out through windows. Four were treated in hospitals. About 15 other passengers left through an emergency door opened by the motorman after he stopped the car.

CITY BACK AT WORK AFTER COOL HOLIDAYS

Firecracker Injuries Total 305 but Only Three Remain in Hospitals.

St. Louisans returned to work today after a two-day celebration of the 161st anniversary of the nation's independence. Many were unburned, some were tired from overexertion, but only 305 were reported injured by fireworks in the city and St. Louis County. Of these, three remained in hospitals.

Large crowds saw organized pyrotechnic displays last night. From Saturday afternoon until the last cannon cracker and Roman candle were fired late yesterday, explosions filled the air. Golf, country outings, swimming, fishing and motoring attracted many.

The weather was in welcome contrast to the 100-degree temperature of Fourth of July last year. The highest mark reached on the thermometer yesterday and Sunday was 91 degrees, while the lowest was 68 early Sunday. There was heavy rain in part of St. Louis County Sunday afternoon.

Highways Are Jammed. Many streets in city and suburbs seemed deserted until holiday traffic began pouring back from the country last night. Then, such main roads as Highways 40, 61 and 66 were jammed with automobiles. Railroads and bus lines were busy, too, bringing back throngs.

While city folk went away, many rural dwellers came to St. Louis for the double holiday.

The national salute of 48 guns was fired at Jefferson Barracks yesterday noon, following a concert by the Sixth Infantry band.

A crowd estimated by the management of Lambert-St. Louis airport at 15,000 or more gathered about the field last night for the annual fireworks provided by the Airport Association, but about one-fourth of the elaborate set pieces were destroyed when a landing airplane ran through them at dusk, shortly before they were to have been touched off.

Fireworks Ruined at Airport. Three American flag designs, a big pinwheel and a finale piece, together worth $200, were ruined. Ralph W. Page, field manager, told a Post-Dispatch reporter that the pilot and sole occupant of the monoplane which ran into them on a space between two runways was Mike Shattuck. Page announced over the loudspeakers what had happened. Late in the afternoon the crowd was entertained by National Guard and Naval Reserve craft, and with aerial acrobatics by C. B. McMahon.

The Clayton Fire & Police Benefit Association attracted thousands to Francis Field, Washington University, with another fireworks exhibition last night, while other thousands thronged at Walsh Stadium of St. Louis University to see and hear pyrotechnics for the benefit of Welcome Inn.

Two Children Lose Eyes. City Hospital treated 207 patients for fireworks injuries Saturday, Sunday and Monday; Homer G. Phillips, 58; County Hospital, 33, and other hospitals, seven.

Two children lost eyes in firecracker accidents. Lawrence Kneese, 15 years old, 2608A North Eleventh street, was struck in the right eye by a fragment of a milk bottle which was burst by a cannon cracker. The cracker did not explode immediately and he was hurt when starting to examine it. His eye was removed at City Hospital.

Lucille Perry, 12, Negro, of South Kinloch Park, was struck in the face by a firecracker tossed by another child. Her left eye was taken out at County Hospital.

A tin can placed over a cannon cracker struck the forehead of Joseph Carrington, 12, 1813 Coleman street. He suffered a hemorrhage of the right eye and a deep laceration.

POLICE BOARD PURCHASES 20 NEW AUTOMOBILES

Bids Submitted by 19 Companies; Four Dealers Share $11,678 Order.

Purchase of 20 new automobiles for the Police Department for $11,678 was announced yesterday by Frank B. Coleman, purchasing agent of the Board of Police Commissioners, following computation of bids submitted by 19 automobile companies. The four dealers who received the orders bid an aggregate of $3807 on old machines traded in by the department, the highest bid received. There was no difference in the prices submitted by any bidder for the new cars.

Successful bidders and the automobiles to be purchased from each were: Rieffling Automobile Co., six Fords; Downtown Chevrolet Co., five Chevrolets; L. M. Stewart, Inc., two Plymouths, and Berry Motor Car Co., seven Packards. All are sedans.

The new Police Board, which took office June 11, has been purchasing supplies for the department on the basis of competitive bidding. The preceding board followed the general practice of purchasing supplies without asking for bids, contending that, under State law, they were not required to do so.

Midget Craft Remains in Air for 24 Hours.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, July 6.—Flying over the suburban sky harbor airport, Norman B. Doerr, flying instructor, established yesterday what was said to be a new endurance record for midget planes.

H. Kunath, manager of the airport, said Doerr broke the previous record of 19 hours and 57 minutes and kept his plane in the air for four hours and nine minutes longer, or a total of 24 hours and six minutes.

HUSBAND SHOTS MAN WHO BROKE UP HOME

Ross McGee Wounded Five Times by Floyd Stephens in East St. Louis.

Ross McGee, East St. Louis laborer, accused by Floyd Stephens of causing his wife to leave him temporarily last December, was shot five times by Stephens when he called at the Stephens home, 1019 St. Louis avenue, East St. Louis, at 1:30 a. m. yesterday. He is in a serious condition at St. Mary's Hospital.

Stephens, also a laborer, said in a written statement to police that he emptied a revolver at McGee when McGee grabbed his shirt and threatened to "wing" his neck. He and his wife were charged in warrants with assault to kill.

Awakened by screams of his wife, Stephens went to the front door, he related, and found Mrs. Stephens just inside with McGee on the front porch. McGee, he asserted, "broke up my home and lived with my wife for about 10 days" last December.

"I told him to go on away, that I didn't want any trouble," he continued, "but he said I was yellow and grabbed me by the shirt as I backed into the doorway, threatening to wing my neck. I picked up a revolver I had used to celebrate the Fourth and emptied it at him."

Mrs. Stephens, who is 28 years old, told police she was awakened by a noise on the front porch, apparently caused by discharge of fireworks. Investigating, she went on, she found McGee, told him she no longer loved him and asked him to go home. She screamed, she said, when he started toward her. She corroborated her husband's account of the shooting.

McGee, shot twice in the chest, and in the back of the head, the left side and the right arm, told police at the hospital he had gone to visit Mrs. Stephens as he said he had been doing occasionally since she returned to her husband. He is 38 years old and resides at 538 North Twelfth street. Stephens is 35.

GIRL HURT IN CRASH OF 4 MACHINES DIES

Emma Curren of Nuroad Succumbs in County Hospital; Mother Also Killed.

Miss Emma Curren of Caroline street, Nuroad, died at County Hospital today of a fractured skull suffered in an automobile accident on Florissant road, about a mile north of Ferguson, Saturday night.

The death of the 18-year-old girl was the second fatality that resulted from the crash in which three automobiles and a truck were involved. Her mother, Mrs. Edward Curren Sr., died before she could be taken to a doctor's office.

The girl's father and another sister, Eunice, 12, are still in a serious condition at the hospital. A brother, Edward Jr., who was driving the car, escaped with a few cuts about the face.

In trying to avoid a truck that was parked at the side of the road without lights, one of the cars swerved and collided head-on with a second machine. At almost the same moment, the Curren car lurched into the rear of the truck. It was overturned and its occupants were thrown onto the highway.

A coroner's jury recommended today that W. C. Davis, 8525 Garvin avenue, Ramona Park, driver of the truck, and his helper, Roy Wilson, 40 Margaretta street, Ferguson, be held for the grand jury for further investigation.

Davis is in the county hospital with a fractured leg, but Wilson, who suffered lesser hurts, was able to testify at the inquest. He said that the truck had stalled after backing out of a driveway, and that he was trying to crank it when the accident occurred.

GIRL HURT IN CRASH OF 4 MACHINES DIES

Emma Curren of Nuroad Succumbs in County Hospital; Mother Also Killed.

Miss Emma Curren of Caroline street, Nuroad, died at County Hospital today of a fractured skull suffered in an automobile accident on Florissant road, about a mile north of Ferguson, Saturday night.

The death of the 18-year-old girl was the second fatality that resulted from the crash in which three automobiles and a truck were involved. Her mother, Mrs. Edward Curren Sr., died before she could be taken to a doctor's office.

The girl's father and another sister, Eunice, 12, are still in a serious condition at the hospital. A brother, Edward Jr., who was driving the car, escaped with a few cuts about the face.

In trying to avoid a truck that was parked at the side of the road without lights, one of the cars swerved and collided head-on with a second machine. At almost the same moment, the Curren car lurched into the rear of the truck. It was overturned and its occupants were thrown onto the highway.

A coroner's jury recommended today that W. C. Davis, 8525 Garvin avenue, Ramona Park, driver of the truck, and his helper, Roy Wilson, 40 Margaretta street, Ferguson, be held for the grand jury for further investigation.

Davis is in the county hospital with a fractured leg, but Wilson, who suffered lesser hurts, was able to testify at the inquest. He said that the truck had stalled after backing out of a driveway, and that he was trying to crank it when the accident occurred.

Auto Kills Deaf Mute; Driver Does Not Stop.
Berthold Clark, a farm hand, was killed early this morning when struck by an automobile on St. Charles Rock road near Adie road, St. Louis County. The driver did not stop.

Clark, who was 65 years old, and was a deaf mute, resided with Edward Hoecht, near Mount Lebanon cemetery, St. Charles road, and was on his way home when struck. No witnesses were found, but near the body, which was on the north side of the road, were several fragments of glass from an automobile headlight. A tavern proprietor near the scene of the accident said Clark had been in the tavern a few minutes before.

Overland Man Hurt in Crash South of Salem, Dies.

Peter Warren of Overland died yesterday of a skull fracture suffered at 5 a. m. Sunday when a truck in which he was riding with his son, Thomas, the driver, and other members of his family collided head-on with another machine at a curve on Highway 19 about 20 miles south of Salem, Mo.

At Salem it was said the driver of the other car stopped, said his name was Weaver and then drove on, saying he was going to Jefferson City, where he was a guard at the State penitentiary. Mr. Warren, 66 years old, a laborer, who resided at Hood and Flora avenues, was going to visit a daughter, residing about 21 miles south of Salem. The others were not hurt seriously.

Criminal Carelessness Is Charged in Boy's Auto Death.

A coroner's verdict of criminal carelessness against Leonard Green of Glencoe was returned yesterday in the death of Grover Gilmore of Glencoe, 16 years old, killed Sunday night when he was knocked from the running board of an automobile by another car driven by Green. Gilmore's skull was fractured.

The accident occurred on Eatherton road, three miles north of Eureka. Gilmore was riding on a machine driven south by Leo Webb of Allenton and occupied also by Gilmore's mother, Mrs. Henry Gilmore. The other car was going north.

Woman Killed in Collision to Be Buried Tomorrow.

The funeral of Miss Helen Hogan, 1185 Hodiament avenue, owner of a tavern in Wellston, who was killed early Sunday when her automobile collided head-on with another on Manchester road a mile west of Barrett Station road, will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow at the Arthur J. Donnelly mortuary, 3840 Lindell boulevard. Burial will be in Valhalla cemetery.

Miss Hogan, 34 years old, was thrown from her car and her skull fractured. She died soon afterward at St. Louis County Hospital. The driver of the other car, John Morrissey, 1306 Laurel street, and three persons riding with him suffered minor injuries.

Blind Can Take Dogs on Trains.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—President Roosevelt signed today a bill permitting blind persons to take trained guide dogs with them on Pullman and passenger coaches.

TESTIMONY ON CLAIMS OF A. F. OF L. VS. C. I. O

Patternmakers Tell of Closed Shop Pact at
N. L. R. B. Hearing.

Pattern makers affiliated with the American Federation of Labor once had a closed shop agreement with the Commonwealth Steel Co. of Granite City, now, a plant of the General Steel Castings Corporation, but had not sought to negotiate with the management in behalf of their members from 1923 until early this year, their business agent testified today at a hearing before the National Labor Relations Board. The hearing, which started Friday, is on the conflicting claims of three A. F. of L. craft unions and the C. I. O. Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers. The craft unions seek recognition as the collective bargaining agencies for skilled workers in their crafts, while the C. I. O. organization claims the right to represent all of the plant's 2950 employees.

Attitude of Management.
The business agent of the Pattern Makers' Association, Stephen P. Doyle, testified that 135 of the 180 workmen in the Commonwealth's pattern department were members of his organization. The association, he said, had a closed shop agreement with the Commonwealth from 1905 until 1921, although there was no signed contract. This agreement was terminated, he said, following a strike in 1923.

When the association sought to resume collective bargaining with the management this year, Doyle said, it was informed that the management would not enter into any negotiations until the Labor Board had ruled on the conflicting claims of the four organizations which sought to negotiate for employees of the plant.

George Kaiser, president of the Pattern Makers' Association, testified that one East Side steel company which had recognized the C. I. O. had been willing also to negotiate with the pattern makers' A. F. of L. organization. Objection to Blanket Bargaining. The other A. F. of L. unions in the Commonwealth plant are the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, Iron Ship Builders, and Welders, which claims more than 120 of the 160 molders as members, and the International Association of Machinists, which claims 72 members among the 83 machinists. The C. I. O. union claims a membership of 2600 in the total of 2950 employees, most of whom are unskilled laborers.

In earlier testimony the A. F. of L. unions sought to show that if skilled workers, who are in the minority, were required to bargain with the management through an organization composed chiefly of unskilled workers, their wages would be lower than if skilled workers could bargain through their own organizations.

PILOT OF STEEL GLIDER HURT WHEN CRAFT CRASHES IN TEST

He Attempts Too Steep a Climb and Plane Falls; Legs Fractured.

Made by Others.
ELMIRA, N. Y., July 6.—William M. Eichleay, 26, of Elmira, Pa., suffered a possible fractured leg and many bruises yesterday when his glider, made of steel tubing, crashed on a test flight. Officers here said the national soaring contest here said Eichleay, making a flight for a soaring license, attempted too steep a climb at 100-foot altitude, and the glider nosed in.

Contestants for the soaring championships recorded the largest number of distance flights of any day of the meet as ideal wind currents sent most of them into the air for tests. Emil Lehecka, Long Island City, and Peter Riedel, Bogota, Colombia, each soared 113 miles to Pulaski, N. Y. Harland Ross, Montebello, Cal., landed at Belmont, N. Y., a distance of 50 miles, and Chester Decker, Glen Rock, N. J., soared to Kaysville, 50 miles.

THREE ADMIT HOLDUPS AFTER ARREST IN ROW OVER 2 CENTS

Negroes Implicate Fourth Man
Also in Burglaries and Theft of Purse.

Three Negroes arguing on a street corner over a holdup which had netted them only two cents were arrested early yesterday and admitted, police said, 28 holdups, 10 burglaries and 15 purse snatchings. Those held said they were William Knowles, 19 years old; John R. Rogers, 18, and Charles Howard, 18. They implicated a fourth man, Sam Carter, 20, who, police said, admitted participating in most of the crimes confessed by the others.

In most instances only small amounts were obtained. The three arrested first were identified by Oscar Blank, 4453A Lexington avenue, as the men who took two cents from him in the 3100 block of Newstead avenue, shortly before their arrest.

POSTMASTER KILLED IN AUTO

C. F. Burton of Sikeston Victim of Crash.

By the Associated Press.
SIKESTON, Mo., July 6.—C. F. Burton, Postmaster here, was killed last night when his automobile collided with another at a Highway 61 intersection near here.

Burton, 65 years old, had just returned from Farmerville. Four persons in the automobile, driven by Charles Bethune of Sikeston, were injured, none seriously.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH FIRST OF SCOTTSDORO TRIALS WILL BE HELD ON MONDAY

Two Defendants to Be Tried Each Week, Alabama Judge Decides.

By the Associated Press.
DECATUR, Ala., July 6.—Trial of the first of eight defendants in Alabama's internationally known "Scottsboro case" was set today for next Monday by Judge W. W. Callahan. Clarence Norris, the first of the eight to be arraigned on rape charges, pleaded not guilty. Judge Callahan announced he would try two of the defendants each week "until we finish them."

Before the arraignment of Norris, Judge Callahan returned confiscated cameras to two photographers with instructions to Sheriff J. Street Sandlin to "arrest anyone found with a camera about this courthouse and bring them before me."

Norris was arraigned under an indictment charging he attacked Mrs. Victoria Price March 25, 1931, aboard a freight train. He was twice convicted and given the death penalty, but both verdicts were set aside by the United States Supreme Court.

Clarence Watts of Huntsville, Ala., represented the Negroes, and, by agreement, filed a motion to remove the case to Federal Court. Judge Callahan overruled the motion as in the Heywood Patterson case Jan. 8, 1936. Watts also placed in the record notice of a motion to be filed later for a change of venue.

Judge Callahan said he would permit argument and evidence on this motion. Assistant Attorney-General Thomas S. Lawson designated Charlie Weems as the defendant whose trial was set for July 15. The defendants beside Norris and Weems are Otis Montgomery, Esie Powell, Willie Robertson, Roy Wright, Andy Wright and Eugene Williams. The ninth defendant, Heywood Patterson, has been sentenced to 71 years in prison. Norris is the only one of the eight who has faced an Alabama jury since April, 1931, when all but Roy Wright were given death sentences.

STATE REPRESENTATIVE, OWNER OF TAVERN, HURT IN FIGHT

Robert G. Taylor Suffers Broken
Nose When He Orders Two to Leave Saloon.

State Representative Robert G. Taylor of the First District suffered a broken nose, severe bruises about the eyes and cuts of the lips Saturday night in a fight with two customers in his tavern at 3211 Ivanhoe avenue. After treatment at Deaconess Hospital, he returned to his home, 6577 Arsenal street. The men, who identified themselves as John Curran, cement contractor, and his son, William, 22 years old, both of 6751 Arsenal street, were released on bond. Representative Taylor told police the Currans got in an argument with another customer and when he ordered them to leave they beat him. Taylor said he left the tavern to call police and was again beaten when the Currans met him on the street.

PICKET ACCIDENTALLY KILLED IN CLASH AT FACTORY

Man Falls Under Car When Non-
Strikers Attempt to Enter Shops.

MEMPHIS, Mich., July 6.—Joseph Jozwiak, a picket, was accidentally killed today in a clash between pickets and non-strikers at the strike-bound Lloyd Manufacturing Co. plant. Jozwiak was fatally hurt when he slipped and fell under an automobile entering the plant driveway and was dragged nearly 300 feet. He died a half hour later in a hospital.

The fatality occurred when the firm attempted today to reopen its plant, closed by a walkout since June 22. Pickets estimated by police at more than 400 massed about the entrance to demonstrate their opposition. The company employs 1000 persons.

Woman Injured in Auto Accident.

Mrs. James Webb, 2009 North
Fifteenth street, suffered injuries of the elbow and hip when an automobile in which she was riding ran off Illinois Highway No. 3 near Parks Airport at 7 o'clock last night, and rolled over three times in a ditch. She was taken to De Paul Hospital.

TUESDAY, JULY 6, 1937 STREET CAR KILLS WOMAN AT CEMETERY

Mourner, Leaving Father's Grave, Is Struck on Right-of-Way.

Mrs. Joseph Biesk, 3514 North Eleventh street, was killed yesterday when struck by a one-man Bellefontaine street car. She had been walking on the right-of-way at Calvary Cemetery, where she had gone to visit the grave of her father.

The car operator, George Wideman, 5508 Pennsylvania avenue, told police Mrs. Biesk was walking between the tracks in West Florissant avenue, near Emerson avenue, apparently hurrying to board a car approaching from the opposite direction. Suddenly she stepped in the path of his car. Wideman said, and was struck and thrown about 15 feet. She was pronounced dead at Christian Hospital. Wideman furnished bond pending an inquest.

Mrs. Biesk, 65 years old, is survived by her husband, four sons and four daughters. Her father, Joel Hulse, died 15 years ago.

ARTHUR FORISTEL SAYS HE PAID $800 TO COMPANY

Relatives Charge He Assigned His Interest in Family Investment
Firm to Sister.

An investment of $800 in the Foristel Family Investment Co. 15 years ago was cited in Circuit Court today by Arthur Foristel, brother of the late Edward W. Foristel, prominent attorney and Republican politician, in support of his claim for a one-fifth interest in the company's assets, valued at $146,000 or more.

His testimony was given before Judge Thomas J. Rowe Jr. on his motion for a temporary receiver for assets of the family company. The motion was filed in connection with his suit for an accounting and distribution of the assets.

His relatives contend he has no interest in the investment company, having assigned whatever interest he might have had to his sister, Mrs. William Landwehr, in 1929.

DIES OF PISTOL WOUND

Granite City Man Said He Accidentally Shot Himself.

Henry Hernandez, 935 Pacific avenue, Granite City, died yesterday at City Hospital of a bullet wound in the abdomen, which he told police was accidentally inflicted while he was shooting at birds with his automatic pistol in Chain of Rocks Park Sunday afternoon.

Hernandez turned over his pistol, of foreign make, to police, who reported there were no powder burns on his clothing. He said the pistol was accidentally discharged while he was reloading. He was 36 years old.

THREE FIREWORKS DEATHS REPORTED OVER COUNTRY

Two Girls Succumb to Burns From Sparklers and Man Is Killed by Exploding Cannon.

CHICAGO, July 6.—Three deaths were attributed directly to fireworks in the two-day Fourth of July celebration throughout the country.

The fireworks victims were Geraldine Mulvey, 8 years old, Woonsocket, R. I.; Julia Priess, 9, Baltimore, Md., and Howard C. Marsh, 48, Roxboro, Mass. The girls died of burns suffered when their dresses were ignited by sparklers. Marsh was fatally injured when tamping powder into a home-made cannon. At Price, Utah, 4-year-old Eloise Hope Burton bought a penny box of matches and returned home to set off her firecrackers. Neighbors found her fatally burned in her back yard.

Forty-six states reported 310 automobile accident deaths in the two-day holiday—102 more than were killed in highway accidents during the corresponding period last year. Drowning fatalities totaled 142, surpassing all but the 1931 record when 181 drowned. One hundred and seven met violent deaths from other causes.

Windsor's Vicar Arrives in U. S.

THE REV. ROBERT ANDERSON JARDINE, FORMER vicar who married Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson to the Duke of Windsor. He arrived in New York with his wife yesterday for a lecture tour. "I wanted them to have a chance," he said. "I'd do it again."

PASTOR WHO MARRIED DUKE IN U. S. FOR LECTURE TOUR

Criticizes Archbishop of Canterbury for Being "On the Fence" on Pending Divorce Legislation.

NEW YORK, July 6.—The Rev. Robert Anderson Jardine, who defied his church superiors to give the Duke and Duchess of Windsor a clerical wedding arrived here yesterday "to tell Americans how to be good Christians."

He made it clear that he decided his little parish in Yorkshire, England, was too small for him even before he incurred the wrath of Church of England authorities. He called himself "a sky pilot" as he posed for pictures with an aviator who is going to fly him on a lecture tour of the United States. He also posed with Hugh C. Ernst, president of the radio organization which is financing his trip, and with the Rev. Christian F. Reisner, who will have the English vicar preach in his Methodist Broadway Temple here Sunday night. When the Rev. Mr. Jardine said that more liberal divorce laws were being considered in Parliament, he added, "The Bishop of Birmingham is coming around to see my way," but he criticized the Archbishop of Canterbury for not taking a stand. "He's had plenty to say in the past against divorce, but now he's on the fence and he won't slide off until he sees what side public opinion is on."

MAN'S BODY FOUND ON TRACK PLANE COMPLETES PASSENGER AND MAIL FLIGHT TO YUKON

Victim of Train Believed to Be Jack Patrick of Cape Girardeau. The body of a man, killed by a train, was found on the Missouri Pacific tracks near the Eiler street crossing at 5 a. m. Sunday. Police learned the man had been drinking Saturday night in taverns in the neighborhood and had introduced himself as Jack Patrick, who recently moved to St. Louis from Cape Girardeau, Mo. He was about 38 years old, 5 feet 8 inches tall and weighed about 150 pounds. The body is at the morgue.

St. Louis Novice Last Reported Saturday in Canadian Flight. James O. Phelps, novice pilot from Lambert-St. Louis Field, who is flying his own plane to Whitehorse, Yukon territory, "for experience," was last reported on Saturday at Hazelton, B. C.

Phelps, who has been flying less than five months and who has a private pilot's license, left St. Louis a week ago in his second-hand, single-engine Monocoupe monoplane, stopping at Minneapolis, Minn., and Fargo, N. D., on his way to Canada. When he failed to report his progress, officers of the Brayton Flying Service, at the Municipal Airport, where Phelps is a student, got in touch with authorities at Edmonton, Alta., and learned he had stopped there. On Saturday he telegraphed his mother, Mrs. J. O. Phelps, 6907 Pershing avenue, University City, from Hazelton.

Before taking up flying, Phelps was a real estate salesman. He is married and resides at 11 Windsor lane, Kirkwood. He is 24 years old.

AUTO RACER KILLED WHEN CAR LOSES WHEEL ON CURVE

Another Fatally Hurt When Tire Blows Out; 9 Hurt in Two Accidents.

ELYRIA, O., July 6.—Kenneth Seeley of Buffalo, automobile racer, was killed yesterday when his midge racing car plunged through a fence after a wheel came off at a curve on a half-mile dirt track.

Weymouth, Mass., July 6.—Alex Ranholm, an automobile racing driver, was fatally injured yesterday at Weymouth Fair Grounds when a tire blew out and his car swerved against a tree.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., July 6.—Nine persons were injured, two seriously, in two automobile racing accidents at Playland Park here yesterday. Struck by a wheel from one of the racing cars, Gerald B. Tome, newspaper photographer, suffered a fractured skull. In the seventh race, cars driven by Mile Salay of South Bend and Ernest Bush of Wyandotte, Mich., locked wheels and Salay's car crashed through a fence, knocked down a utility pole and went into a section of bleachers, injuring eight spectators.

PLANE PILOT DIES IN CRASH

John Ross Killed; Victor Rathel Seriously Hurt.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 6.—An airplane crash almost across the river from the Missouri State Capitol building was fatal Sunday to John Ross, 21 years old, pilot. Victor Rathel, manager of the Jefferson City airport, was seriously injured.

next WINTER

enjoy living -
- - - enjoy your home

WHEN WINTER COMES AGAIN and the cold winds blow long and loud, Automatic Gas Heat will keep your house warm as toast.

Install GAS HEAT in your home now! Our new budget plan, which is optional, enables you to budget your winter's fuel bill over a 10-month period. An estimate is made of the cost of gas per year to heat your home; and you pay one-tenth of this estimate each month. The final adjustment, based on what you have actually used, is made on the tenth month. The first budget payment is in September.

FACTS ABOUT THE NEW GAS HEATING BUDGET PLAN

- You distribute your heating costs over 10 monthly payments.
- You can plan your expenses in advance.
- You are not subject to extreme costs for fuel in any month.
- You have a constant fuel supply.
- Your home has an even, healthful atmosphere at all times.
- You have all the advantages of cleanliness, comfort, economy, health and convenience that gas heat provides.
- You have the advantages of the completely automatic home heating fuel.

TRYING TO LEARN MAN'S ERRAND ON NIGHT OF MURDER

Police Seek to Find Out What Occurred After William Kappen Visited Fiancee Friday Eve.

St. Louis and East Side police investigating the murder of William Kappen, who was found shot to death Saturday afternoon in a St. Clair County field, were seeking today to learn what had occurred about midnight Friday when he returned to his home at 5372A Union boulevard, after visiting Miss Irene Traub, 4137 Nebraska avenue, whom he was to have married Saturday morning.

Kappen's return to his home was established by the finding there of a street car transfer, punched for 11:30 p. m. Friday. He had taken a Bellefontaine street car from Miss Traub's home, and on alighting at West Florissant avenue and Union boulevard, had walked about two blocks to his home, not using the transfer.

A freshly pressed suit was laid out on his bed, in preparation for his marriage, and water had been drawn for a bath.

Had Been Shot Where Found. This was all that police were able to learn of Kappen's movements before his death. The lower flat was vacant, and neighbors had observed nothing out of the ordinary in the vicinity that night.

When Kappen's body was found, in a field off State Highway 15, five miles west of Belleville, near a roadhouse known as the "Cat and Fiddle," it was attired in clothing differing from that which he had worn when he visited Miss Traub. He had been shot once through the head, the bullet entering his left temple and emerging on the other side. Bloodstains on the ground indicated he had been shot where the body was found, but the bullet could not be found.

The body was found by Dr. H. E. Rose, a physician, and V. C. Leo, both of East St. Louis, who were looking at property in the vicinity. It was identified at the Gaerdner undertaking establishment in Belleville at 2 a. m. Sunday by Miss Traub. A friend had called her attention to a newspaper account of the murder and the similarity of the description of the body with Kappen's appearance.

Kappen, who was 38 years old, had been employed by the Moloney Electric Co. The flat on Union

Former Spanish Crown Prince and Bride

COUNT and COUNTESS OF COVADONGA
AFTER their marriage Saturday night in Havana, Cuba. He is the eldest son of former King Alfonso of Spain. She is the former Marta Rocafort, daughter of a dentist.

boulevard was one he had rented about a week before his death, in anticipation of his marriage. Previously he had lived at 4939 Claxton avenue.

A coroner's verdict of homicide at the hands of persons unknown was returned yesterday in Belleville. Testimony at the inquest brought out that Kappen's nose had been broken by a blow before his death.

Funeral services for Kappen were held this morning at St. Mark's Catholic Church, Page boulevard and Academy avenue.

He was the son of George Kappen, who has been a patient at the City Sanitarium since he shot and killed his son-in-law, William H. Porter, and wounded his daughter, Mrs. Mary Porter, two years ago.

The elder Kappen, who lived with the Porters, shot them because he feared they would desert him. He was held to be insane.

MARRIES DIVORCED COUNTESS

Loses All Privileges and Rights to Succeed to Throne; King Does Not Attend Ceremony.
STOCKHOLM, July 6.—Prince Charles of Sweden sacrificed any chance of inheriting the throne today when he married Countess Elsa von Rosen, a commoner.

The nephew of King Gustav V of Sweden and a brother of the late Queen Astrid of the Belgians lost his title and prerogatives in the Swedish royal family.

He acquired a new title, however, becoming by royal decree Prince Charles Bernadotte. His bride, daughter of the Swedish court master of ceremonies, became Princess Elsa.

Prince Charles was the third member of the Swedish royal family in recent years to forfeit his crown rights for love.

The new Princess, seven years older than her 26-year-old husband, was divorced in 1935 from M. Aglos von Rosen. She has three children.

Neither King Gustav nor King Leopold of Belgium attended the nuptials at Kville, Oesterhogland Province.

County Court Calls for Vote on Bond Issue to Pay Bills
$300,000 Special Election to Decide Whether $300,000 in Debts Can Be Met by Loan.

An order called a special election Aug. 17 for vote on the proposed issuance of approximately $300,000 in bonds to pay judgments obtained against St. Louis County for unpaid 1936 bills, was issued by the County Court today.

Outstanding judgments against the county totaled $769,715, the court announced. The amount of the bond issue will be made sufficient to cover this amount and the cost of the election, estimated at about $30,000. A retentive adopted by the court in connection with the order set forth that the county has no other means of raising money to satisfy the judgment.

A two-thirds favorable vote will be necessary to pass the bond issue.

FINED FOR STREET FIGHT
Man and Woman Penalized for Disturbing Peace.

Paul Grandinetti, 5740 West Park avenue, was fined $85, and Miss Marie Badgley, 20 years old, 4249 Hunt avenue, was fined $60 by Police Judge James F. Nangle today on charges of peace disturbance and resisting arrest growing out of a fight between the two in which she had been broken by a blow before his death.

Probationary Patrolman Robert Fitzgerald suffered a torn ligament in the right shoulder and Patrolman Louis Kaufman was bruised on the face attempting to separate Grandinetti and Miss Badgley. The policemen reported that Grandinetti kicked Patrolman Kaufman in the face in the melee, which Grandinetti denied.

HELEN KELLER LEAVES JAPAN
Called Good-Will Envoy, Second to Perry, as She Starts for Korea.

TOKYO, July 6.—Helen Keller left for Korea today after a 10-week tour of Japan in which she visited 33 cities and lectured to more than 1,000,000 people.

The woman who overcame the triple handicap of blindness, deafness and muteness, was described by United States Ambassador Joseph Grew, at an Independence day celebration as "a good-will envoy second only to Commodore Perry."

He added that whereas the naval officer had opened "Japan's doors to the West with fear and suspicion, Miss Keller did it with love and friendship."

INLAND STEEL CO. WINS POINT IN NLRB HEARING

Allowed to Make Transcript of
"Off-the-Record" Testimony at Chicago.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, July 6.—The National Labor Relations Board hearing, which terminated abruptly Saturday when counsel for the Inland Steel Co. withdrew, resumed today with the company the winner in its demand for a transcript of all "off-the-record" testimony.

The hearing is on the board's complaint that Inland violated the Wagner Labor Act by declining to sign a collective bargaining contract with the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee. It is being conducted by Examiner Charles A. Wood.

As the proceedings opened, Wood reversed his previous ruling and instructed that all testimony be transcribed. He said, however, that "off-the-record" portions would not become part of the official transcript.

The company attorneys walked out Saturday after a deputy United States marshal, summoned by Wood, ejected a reporter whom Attorney Ballard had brought to transcribe all testimony for the company.

PROPOSAL FOR HENRY SCHOOL CHANGE UP AGAIN TONIGHT

Superintendent Gerling Has Recommended It Be Converted From White to Negro Institution.

A recommendation for converting the Henry School, 1220 North Tenth street, from a white to a Negro school, will be renewed before the Instruction Committee of the Board of Education tonight by Superintendent of Instruction Henry J. Gerling. It was deferred by the committee last month. Dr. Gerling said to a Post-Dispatch reporter, because of protests from representatives of the nearby Neighborhood Gardens, housing center for whites.

It would be to the best interests of the school system to carry out his recommendation, the superintendent asserted, saying the Henry was well located with reference to a Negro residential district. Negro pupils would be sent to the Henry from the 65-year-old Jefferson School, 903 Wash. street. It would cost $25,000 to recondition the Jefferson for further use and he has sought to save this money, Dr. Gerling explained.

He has been unable to understand, he added, why Negro leaders have not come out in support of his proposal.

The ONE Air-Conditioner That Supplies ALL FIVE Essentials!
Air Conditioning to us means far more than merely low temperature. There are five essential requirements to proper Air Conditioning!
FIRST. Refrigeration to bring the temperature to a point where the body can readily adjust itself.
SECOND. Remove excess humidity from the air, permitting evaporation of body moisture.
THIRD. Proper circulation throughout the entire room.
FOURTH. The all important matter of purification. The air is electrically purified. Ionization actually removes odors from the air.
FIFTH. Filtration is especially important to hay fever and sinus sufferers. Pollen and dust is all removed.

MAYFIELD (KY.) MAN KILLS ST. LOUISAN

Mack W. Eaton-Renews Four-Year-Old Quarrel and Is Shot to Death.

Mack W. Eaton, a steelworker, 2907 Wisconsin avenue, died yesterday at a Mayfield (Ky.) hospital from bullet wounds suffered Sunday when he renewed a quarrel of four years' standing with his host, John Tinsley, a farmer near Mayfield.

Tinsley, 63 years old, fired twice at the St. Louisan, who was 33 years old, six feet tall and weighed about 220 pounds, after Eaton threatened to "tear him to pieces," witnesses said. Both bullets entered Eaton's body, one in the abdomen, the other in the back.

With his sister, Mrs. Robert Emery, and her husband, Tinsley's nephew, Eaton had arrived from St. Louis about noon Sunday on a fishing trip. He lived with the Emerys at the Wisconsin avenue address.

After an afternoon of fishing the group went to the Tinsley farm to spend the night. Eaton had been drinking, the others related at an inquest yesterday. He reopened the old dispute, and recalled that Tinsley had ordered him from the house and had told him not to return. He complained that he was not welcome, and followed Tinsley from the room shouting that he would "tear him to pieces with his hands," the witnesses said.

Eaton, formerly of Atlanta, Ga., had been employed at the Busch-Sulzer Bros. Diesel Engine Co., 3300 South Second street, for about two years. His sister, who saw the shooting, accompanied the body to Atlanta, where funeral services will be held.

Dizzy Dean

CARDINALS' ACE IS ACCOMPANIED TO WASHINGTON BY SAM BREADON

Pitcher Had Decided Not to Play Tomorrow and Came to St. Louis From Chicago.

By J. Roy Stockton.

Jerome Herman Dean is going to the All-Star game after all, but a seemingly unimportant thing like putting his hand baggage in the wrong corner of a hotel lobby almost made the great pitcher miss baseball's biggest exhibition game of 1937.

You see, the Cardinals were in Chicago yesterday, before going to the ball park, where a doubleheader was played; the players were instructed to leave their handbags in the lobby. There was one corner where the players returning to St. Louis were to stack their luggage and another where Manager Frank Frisch, Pitcher Dean, Joe Medwick, Johnny Mize, Pepper Martin and Jess Haines were to leave theirs. The six players were going to catch a train for Washington, where the All-Star game will be played tomorrow, while other members of the Cardinals party were to catch a train for St. Louis.

There were only two places to put the baggage, reducing the chance for error to a rather low minimum; but would you believe it, Jerome Herman put his Washington-bound luggage in the corner with the St. Louis-bound bags.

Diz Remembers Things. Came train time and Jerome Herman suddenly remembered that he had left his baggage in the wrong corner. That's one thing about him. He remembers things like that. It's remarkable. So there was nothing for Dizzy to do but go after the misplaced luggage. You couldn't have your luggage going to St. Louis when you were going to Washington. So Dizzy went to the station from which the St. Louis train was to leave and sure enough, he was right again. There was his baggage.

Dizzy's heart was full of home sweet home when he saw the baggage and the other Cardinals, homeward bound, and as it seemed to be a good idea at the time, he decided that he wouldn't go to the old All-Star game. He'd pass it up and go straight to St. Louis.

Jerome Herman Dean arrived in St. Louis about 2 o'clock this morning and less than an hour later Mrs. Dean telephoned to Secretary Clarence Lloyd, announcing that she had decided that Dizzy would go to the All-Star game, after all. So would Mr. Lloyd please get Dizzy's uniform and send it over to the Dean hotel?

That was a great game, that All-Star game, a worthy cause and a fine show and, besides, there might be some penalty for failing to keep exhibition game appointments. Yes, Mr. Lloyd confirmed that a player's presence at exhibition games and this certainly was one of those things.

Lloyd sent the Dizzy Dean uniform on its way and later this morning Mrs. Dean telephoned again, to inform Lloyd that Dizzy was still going to the All-Star game.

Dizzy started for Washington by air. He boarded a T. W. A. plane that left the Lambert-St. Louis Field at 10:10 o'clock this morning and will arrive at Washington about 4 this afternoon. President Sam Breadon of the Cardinals accompanied Dizzy.

TWO OUTFIELDERS HURT, MACK USES HURLER IN MEADOWS

PHILADELPHIA, July 6.—Handicapped by the injuries of Bob Johnson and Jack Rothrock, regular outfielders, the Athletics used Pitcher Lynn Nelson in left field in both games against the Washington Senators, yesterday.

Johnson hurt his leg at Boston and will be on the sidelines for at least two weeks.

Rothrock started the first game, although lame from a leg injury. He left the game in the seventh inning. Nelson guarded left field for the remainder of the day and batted in the clean-up position.

Mack pressed Nelson into service because of his batting prowess. Nelson has been used as a pinch-hitter a number of times this season.

GOV. HOFFMAN AND FAMILY
RESCUED FROM BURNING YACHT

Nearby Motorboat Takes Them Off
Craft That Caught Fire Off
Asbury Park, N. J.

By the Associated Press
ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 6.—Gov. and Mrs. Harold G. Hoffman, their two young daughters and 16 other persons were rescued from the 50-foot yacht Manchonock a short time before it burned and sank four miles off-shore Sunday. No one was injured. The accident followed an Independence day marine parade watched by thousands on beaches from Manasquan River to Asbury Park.

Encouraged by Coast Guards in planes and boats, 150 flag-bedecked fishing craft circled in review about the Governor's boat. Then the vessel headed to sea for tuna fishing. An engine-room explosion shook the $75,000 yacht. Skipper Kelly Wilkinson and Sea Scouts vainly attempted to check the flames.

Distress signals summoned a nearby 20-foot motorboat. Mrs. Hoffman, daughters Lillie, 11, and Hope, 4, the Governor and other members of the party were moved to the rescue launch, loading it to capacity. Ten minutes later the Coast Guards took off Capt. Wilkinson, the yacht's owner, Col. William G. Schaeffer, commander of the Sea Scout Patrol, and the last two of the scouts.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH
C. M. T. C. RECRUITS
ARRIVE AT POST

1400 Young Men From Illinois and Missouri at Barracks.

Exactly 1400 young men, 1220 of them from Southern Illinois and 280 from Eastern Missouri, arrived at Jefferson Barracks today for the opening of the summer's Citizens' Military Training Camp at the army post.

Actually, the camp program does not begin until tomorrow, but the citizen soldiers, ranging from 17 to 24 years old, were required to report today for "processing," the routine of submitting to a physical examination and receiving military equipment. And 500 of them were so eager to get into uniform that they were on hand for an early breakfast at the barracks, where they will remain until Aug. 6.

A scene reminiscent of the war-time mobilization of 1917 at the various cantonments was enacted as the "processing" got under way. A long line formed under a hot sun that beat down on the Julius Niles C. M. T. C., named for the first member of the Sixth Infantry to die in France, at the western end of the military reservation.

All Kinds of Clothes.
The recruits wore all manner of clothing. Those who were driven to the post by their parents were in their Sunday best. Hitch-hikers were in more convenient slacks and sweaters.

But as the line slowly moved into one of the permanent concrete block buildings of the camp a transformation was worked. From the other side of the building emerged neatly uniformed soldiers.

Inside they had been subjected to an examination, had been vaccinated against smallpox and had received serum injections as a safeguard against typhoid. When noon came, only one of the candidates had been rejected by the doctors. This high percentage of physical fitness was attributed to the preliminary examinations that the youths were given at home.

In the building they also surrendered their civilian clothes and received regular army equipment. The only distinguishing marks of their uniforms are a red, white and blue hat cord, collar ornaments and canvas leggings.

Once equipped, the youths were assigned to the 158 tents that will house them until the end of their training period. Each of these shelters six men.

This is the second or third encampment for many of the citizen soldiers. Col. Joseph A. Atkins, commanding officer of the camp, said. After attending four encampments and taking a correspondence course, they are commissioned as reserve officers. The camp's regimental commander is Lieutenant-Colonel Alfred O. Brown of the 343d Infantry, a reserve unit that will be in charge of the training activities.

Once finished with the two hours of "processing," the day was a holiday for the summer troops. Many of them went to the post canteen to spend what they had saved out of the Government's traveling allowance of 5 cents a mile. Others inquired about the sports events and the dances to be held in the next few weeks.

But tomorrow reveille will sound at 5:45 a. m.

CEMENT CONCERNS ORDERED TO STOP PRICE STANDARDIZING

Trade Commission Cites Institute and 75 Member Corporations for Practices

By the Associated Press
WASHINGTON, July 6.—The Federal Trade Commission had on file today monopoly charges against the cement industry and ordered to the industry to abandon the "basing point" system of standardizing prices. The campaign against basing point prices was started three months ago with a complaint against manufacturers of cement from soil pipe.

Charging the Cement Institute and 75 member corporations who produce 95 per cent of the nation's cement with using the basing point system, the commission alleged the firms sought to eliminate competition and increase prices.

Under the basing point system, competing producers figure their freight costs from the same place, regardless of the location of their plants. The effect, the commission said, is that "customers nearest the mills are obliged to pay higher net prices than are made by the mills to distant customers."

TWO KILLED, 5 HURT AS AUTO
PLUNGES INTO 12-FOOT DITCH

Tragedy Near Shelton, Mo., Climaxes Group's Holiday Trip to Kansas City.

NEVADA, Mo., July 6.—Richard H. Coats, 53 years old, and Robert Lattin, 11, were killed and five other persons were injured, one critically, last night when a motor car bearing a party of holiday visitors from Carthage to Kansas City plunged into a 12-foot ditch on U. S. Highway No. 71, north of Shelton.

Dangerously injured was Mrs. C. W. Stone, mother of Mrs. Margaret Lattin, driver of the car, and of Mrs. Mildred Stone, who were cut and bruised. Also injured were Barbara Lattin, 10, a daughter of Mrs. Lattin, and Richard D. Wedge Jr., 8, a son of Mrs. Mildred Stone. The group left Saturday to visit another daughter of Mrs. C. W. Stone at Carthage.

Coats, a cemetery salesman, and owner of the car, was a friend of Mrs. Lattin, who is divorced.

DIRT ON WALK MAKES IT HARD "TO GET OUT VOTES"

Unusual Plea for Extension of Street Taken Under Advisement

Rainstorm wash dirt from a lot southeast of O'Fallon Park over sidewalks, "making it difficult to go out and get votes," Mrs. Erma South, 5242 North Broadway, who identified herself as a precinct worker in the First Ward, told the Board of Public Service today in arguing for extension of Adelaide avenue from Von Phul street to Broadway, a distance of two blocks.

The board, after hearing Mrs. South and other residents of the neighborhood, took the application for extension of the street under advisement. It was stated that the owners of the lot, through which the proposed extension would be cut, had offered to give the property to the city.

New bids for a three-year contract to maintain the city's street lights will be received Aug. 3, it was announced today by the Board of Public Service, which recently rejected all bids without explanation.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH
RABBI ISSERMAN TALKS
AT JUDAISM MEETING

Tells at Amsterdam of Co-Operative Relations of St. Louis Churches.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
AMSTERDAM, Holland, July 6.—Rabbi Ferdinand M. Isserman of Temple Israel, St. Louis, spoke Sunday before the World Conference for Progressive Judaism, on "Organized Religion and Modern Life."

In discussing one phase of his subject, "A United Religious Front," Rabbi Isserman told of the fraternal and co-operative relations of the three congregations at the Kingshighway-Washington church center in St. Louis—those of Temple Israel, Second Baptist and St. John's Methodist churches. He told of the interchange of their ministry and of the annual dinner meeting of the men of the three bodies. "We began," he said, "by discussing how to achieve good will between Jews and Christians. Now we take good will for granted, and we discuss how to build a better St. Louis, a finer America and a juster world."

The speaker said that nationalism, so long as its aim is altruistic, could be in accord with religion, but that modern developments of communication and transportation emphasized the ideal of internationalism.

"The League of Nations is founded on the shoals of nationalism," he declared. "Religion must cultivate a sense of the obligations of nations to nations, of the kinship of all people, that out of the ruins of the present League of Nations there may come a mightier league, truly expressive of the universal sympathies of the masses of men and their worship of a universal God."

INQUIRY INTO RESIGNATION OF NEGRO AT ANNAPOLIS

Congressman Mitchell, Who Appointed Him, Going to Academy to Investigate.

By the Associated Press
WASHINGTON, July 6.—Representative Mitchell (Dem.), Illinois, only Negro member of Congress, said today he would go to the naval academy at Annapolis, Md., tomorrow to investigate the resignation of George J. Triver, Negro youth whom he appointed several weeks ago.

"I want to get the facts in this case," Mitchell said, "because another Negro whom I appointed to the academy was railroaded out of it. They said that boy, James L. Johnson Jr., was deficient as to eyesight, English and deportment."

Mitchell received word of Triver's resignation today. He then made an appointment for tomorrow by telephone with Acting Superintendent Todd of the naval academy. Mitchell said Triver's mother, who lives here, did not know why Triver resigned.

Mitchell quoted Todd as saying that Triver made no complaint of mistreatment when he offered his resignation. Mitchell added that Todd told him that Triver had explained that he realized he was not fit for naval service. Triver's home is in Chicago.

BLANTON CO. EMPLOYEES
REJECT FIRM'S OFFER

Vote Not to Attend Meeting
Called by Company President to Present Terms.

Employees of the Blanton Co., oleomargarine manufacturers, who have been on strike since June 15, voted this morning not to attend a meeting called for today by David A. Blanton, company president, who is seeking to settle the strike.

Blanton, in a letter to the strikers last week, stated he intended to announce a company labor policy today, "that will contemplate the right of employees having a union to represent them in their labor relations with the company," and offering a 10 per cent increase in basic wages and reinstatement of all strikers.

William Stix, attorney for the strikers' organization, United Creamery Workers' Local Union No. 1, affiliated with the Committee for Industrial Organization, said the 10 per cent would amount, in some instances, to less than bonuses paid to some workers.

The union objected particularly to a paragraph in the letter, which stated that all employees failing to attend the meeting, or who did not communicate with the company, would be regarded as having no further interest in their jobs "and the company will so take it." Stix said the strikers interpreted the paragraph as coercion, and would report the letter to the National Labor Relations Board.

The C. I. O. union claims to represent 95 per cent of the 106 Blanton employees. Stix said the strikers were willing to waive wage demands temporarily and go back to work with the understanding that an election would be held by the Labor Board to determine the representative organization for collective bargaining.

1. Sidewalks will be elevated—you'll walk and shop ABOVE Main Street, actually cross OVER it.
2. Local traffic will use the FULL width of the streets below—no sidewalks, no parked cars. Loading and unloading will be done INSIDE the buildings.

STOP-AND-GO DRIVING is not only annoying, but also is the costliest kind you do.

One stop can waste enough gasoline to take you 5 city blocks... and 30 stops a day is the nation-wide average.

While traffic authorities are planning "the City of Tomorrow," Shell engineers have developed a fuel... Super-Shell... to meet today's driving problem TODAY.

They have found a way to rearrange the chemical structure of gasoline... actually to balance it.

Automotive engineers use the term "motor-digestible" to describe Super-Shell, because at all motor speeds it is converted so QUICKLY, so COMPLETELY into power.

Save on stop-and-go driving by the regular use of Super-Shell. There's a Shell dealer in your neighborhood.

JAPANESE REPORT ANOTHER CLASH ON SOVIET BORDER

Army Announces Defeat of Russian Force That Made Two Attacks on Frontier Guards.

PROTEST MADE BY MANCHOUKUO

Assault Is Said to Have Led to All-Day Fight in Which the Russians Used Heavy Artillery.

By the Associated Press.
HSINKING, Manchoukuo, July 6.—The Japanese army announced today it had defeated a detachment of Russian troops in a day-long fight on the Eastern frontier of Manchoukuo and Siberia.

The Japanese-inspired government of Manchoukuo immediately made strong representations to Moscow over the renewed outbreak of hostilities.

Soviet troops, the army charged, started two attacks against Japanese-Manchoukuoan border guards yesterday morning near the little frontier town of Chien-shan. An army communique declared the Russians opened fire and wounded one Japanese soldier before the assaults were repulsed.

Russians Use Heavy Artillery. Throughout the day, the army asserted, the Soviet troops brought up heavy artillery and in the evening started a bombardment on the Manchoukuoan side of the border with heavy cannon.

At the same time, the army spokesman said, an attack was made by a detachment of 150 Soviet soldiers.

The Japanese and Manchoukuoan troops were said to have advanced to meet the assault, driving back the alleged invaders with a vigorous counter attack.

Two Soviet soldiers were reported killed in the fight and many wounded.

The latest outbreak was considered here to be serious, coming so soon after the dispute between Russia and Japan caused by last week's fight on the Amur River.

Open Break Averted. Diplomatic negotiations kept Russia and Japan from an open break after Japan had invoked the mutual assistance pact with Manchoukuo and seconded the young state's strong protests to Russia.

Japan accused the Soviet of opening fire on Japanese and Manchoukuoan soldiers as they were bathing off Sennufu Island in the Amur River, the border between Northeastern Manchoukuo and Siberia.

Japanese shore batteries opened fire on Soviet warships and sank one Soviet gunboat, disabled another, and drove off a third.

Troops of both claimants to the islands were withdrawn, and the crisis was thought to have been ended although at the time Japanese sources insisted further Russian aggressions were to be expected.

Although the Soviets have evacuated the Amur River islands they were reported today to be strengthening their troop concentrations all along the Russian side, alarming the Japanese and Manchoukuoan commands.

The alleged assault yesterday was received here with surprise and apprehension. The scene of the latest incident is almost a thousand miles from that of the Amur River fight.

Chien-shan is southwest of Hulin, on the trans-Siberian railway about midway between Vladivostok and Khabarovsk, the headquarters of the Soviet Far Eastern army. It is about 350 miles northeast of Vladivostok.

Soviet Protest Against Occupation of Island in Amur River.

MOSCOW, July 6.—Soviet Russia protested today to Japan against alleged occupation of Bolshoi Island in Amur River by Manchoukuoan troops.

Benedict Kozlovsky, chief of the Far Eastern Division of the Soviet Foreign Commissariat, summoned the Japanese Embassy's counselor to a midnight conference for a discussion of the alleged violation of an evacuation agreement between Russia and Japan. That agreement, reached on July 2, provided for mutual evacuation of disputed islands in the Amur River, between Siberia and Manchoukuo.

The Japanese counselor pleaded that he had no information of the alleged Manchoukuoan occupation of Bolshoi Island. He added, however, that if Manchoukuoan troops had landed on Bolshoi it was only to protect Manchoukuoan residents.

At the same time, Kozlovsky protested against what was termed a Japanese incursion into Soviet territory yesterday on the eastern frontier near Lake Hanka in the Vinokurka hills, which led to the clash and the killing and wounding of several members of Soviet patrols.

British-French Stand Causes Rome To Fear It Went Too Far in Spain

Stiffened Attitude of Two Powers on Non-Intervention Puts Italy and Germany on the Defensive.

By JOHN T. WHITAKER.

(Copyright, 1937, New York Tribune, Inc.)

ROME, July 6.—Italy and Germany now are on the defensive as regards the Spanish civil war, almost for the first time since Gen. Francisco Franco, Spanish rebel leader, and his Moors were flown to the mainland 11 months ago, and many Fascist quarters here are wondering, it was learned yesterday, if the two countries have not over-played their hand.

A compromise is seen as the only realistic solution for the grave crisis which followed the deadlock on non-intervention. However, the Italian public was assured yesterday by Virginio Gayda, writing in Il Giornale d'Italia, that Italy and Germany "will stand firm."

If Great Britain and France of non-intervention would be ended, and with it, informed quarters fear, all the advantages which Italy and Germany have enjoyed in what Premier Benito Mussolini calls their "unneutral" support of Franco.

French Intentions. Every reliable report reaching Rome from Paris indicates that France, once non-intervention has been jettisoned, intends to open its frontiers and rush troops to the loyalists. Consequently, despite its general calm, the Italian press shows perturbation over what its headlines call last week's visit by Premier Juan Negrin, head of the Spanish Government, to see French statesmen at Paris.

Fascist officials here are even more perturbed at the interest they say the French general staff has begun to take in the hypothetical repercussions of the Spanish civil war.

French aid to the loyalists would make their victory certain. It is believed here that Mussolini and Chancellor Adolf Hitler, after a heretofore successful policy of "victory at any price," could choose only between dropping France or sending to him regular army divisions. This latter course might inspire France, the Soviet Union and Britain to similar "recklessness" and that would mean general war.

Democracies' Interests in Spain. This is the pessimistic aspect of what Fascism must face if Britain and France stand firm derives primarily from a feeling here that London is beginning to base its Spanish policy not on "peace at any price," but on its own interests in Spain and the Mediterranean.

A corresponding period in the Italian efforts to take Ethiopia without British intervention came in September, 1935. After months of talking about peace and the League of Nations, the British suddenly informed Rome that the concentration of troops and planes in Libya, on the Egyptian frontier, menaced British interests.

On the basis of self-interest, the British drew in their ships from the four quarters of the globe and promptly dispatched into the Mediterranean the largest fleet ever assembled, a move which menaced Italy more than sanctions. Corollary action would be the closing of the Suez Canal, and what alarmed the Italians today is that the feeling against Italy and the degree of preparations which were lacking then do not seem lacking in Britain today.

Mussolini's Editorial. The new British and French tone of stiffness traces, according to diplomats here, from last week's article in Il Popolo d'Italia by Mussolini, which said that Italy had not been neutral in Spain and that victory, therefore, would go to Italian Fascism.

It was on the fiction of neutrality, a fiction vital to the policy of "peace at any price," that Paris and London were willing to subordinate their own interests to a system of non-intervention designed to keep the general peace by checking further foreign infiltrations.

But, as Mussolini wrote, the fiction was no longer deceiving anyone, and Britain and France began to imagine a Spain controlled by Fascism. A Fascist Spain, whether the Italians and Germans got out of it or not, would imperil Britain's oil supply lines from the Eastern Mediterranean and France's supply of troops from Morocco.

This aim in Spain is to prevent the supply lines without which they could not have won the World War.

Gayda is now, on the one hand, telling the British that Mussolini will give them new assurances whenever they like, that his only aim in Spain is to prevent Bolshevism, and threatening them, on the other hand, with the dire responsibility they must bear for a world war if they do not compromise.

FOREIGNERS SOUGHT IN PLOT TO KILL PORTUGUESE PREMIER

Bomb Thrown at Official's Auto Falls to Harm Him; Windows Broken.

By the Associated Press.

LISBON, Portugal, July 6.—Police announced last night they were convinced foreigners took part in preparations for an unsuccessful attempt Sunday to bomb Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar.

They said material used to set off the bombs included an electric wire and a transformer of English manufacture, and asserted "only professional bombers are capable of such organization."

The bomb exploded on the sidewalk as the Premier was leaving his automobile to attend mass. It shattered windows 100 yards away but only covered the Premier with dust. There were no casualties.

The bomb had been placed so as to wreck the Premier's car. Salazar has been Premier, Minister of Finance, War and Foreign Affairs since Jan. 19, 1936.

BRITISH GENERALS LAY PLANS TO KEEP PEACE IN PALESTINE

Report That Commission Will Advise Three-Way Division Leads to Fear of Demonstrations.

JERUSALEM, July 6.—Lieutenant-General Sir George Weir, commander of British troops in Egypt, arrived in Palestine today to discuss with Lieutenant-General John G. Dill, ranking officer in Jerusalem, the possibility of military co-operation "in the event of necessity."

Reports that the British Palestine commission report, expected Wednesday, would recommend division of Palestine into a Jewish state, an Arab state and a British mandate have led officials to prepare for possible Holy Land demonstrations. The cruiser Resolute was reported en route to Haifa.

Seven British regiments in Palestine number 7000 men. There are also 1200 British native police and 3000 reserve constables.

ALLOWS BILBAO ORE SHIPMENT

France Opens Rebel Blockade for British Mining Company.

LONDON, July 6.—Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco was reported today to have approved verbally the resumption of iron ore shipments to Great Britain from the Orconera properties near Bilbao, which the insurgents have captured.

That is the biggest British-owned company in the Bilbao region, and in 1936 mined 1,000,000 tons. The insurgent blockade of Bilbao, prior to its capture, shut off shipments and hampered the South Wales coal industry.

DE VALERA'S MAJORITY FOUR, VOTE ON 8 SEATS STILL OUT

Irish Free State President's Party Has 67 Places in Parliament, Cosgrave's 41, Others 19.

By the Associated Press.

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, July 6.—County Limerick sprang a last-minute election surprise today and pushed President Eamon de Valera's slim Government majority in the Dail to four.

The district's votes in last Thursday's parliamentary and constitutional elections returned four De Valera deputies and two supporting opposition leader William T. Cosgrave. An even division was expected.

The Government, with eight seats still to be tabulated, holds 67, the Cosgrave opposition, 44; Labor, 11, and Independents, 8.

The latest count on the proposed new Constitution, which would cut Ireland's last ties with Great Britain, showed 14,080 in favor and 404,661 against.

NEW COMET DISCOVERED BY SWISS SCIENTIST

Body of Seventh Magnitude Sighted by Zurich Professor, Harvard Observatory Reports.

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 6.—Harvard Observatory announced yesterday the discovery by Dr. P. Finsler, professor of mathematics at the University of Zurich, Switzerland, of a new comet of the seventh magnitude.

The observatory said that the discovery was made Sunday. The comet's position was given as right ascension, 3 hours, 6 minutes, 6 seconds; declination north 38 degrees, 27 minutes. A diffuse object, it was reported moving east 48 seconds and north 36 minutes daily.

No further information regarding the discovery was contained in a cable from Copenhagen received today, the observatory announced.

President Quezon in Berlin.

BERLIN, July 6.—President Manuel Quezon of the Philippine Commonwealth, his wife and children, and his aid, Gen. Basilio Valdez, arrived today from Paris for several days of sightseeing. The party was welcomed at the railway station by foreign officials and members of the United States embassy. No official receptions were scheduled.

FRANCO REPORTED TO SEEK TROOPS IN ITALY, GERMANY

Spanish Insurgent Leader Said to Have Asked for 125,000 Men, 500 Planes and Artillery.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 6.—Gen. Francisco Franco was reported today by the Spanish Government news agency to have sent the Italian and German Governments a secret memorandum asking for 125,000 more troops for a renewed attack on Madrid.

The purported document, published by the Agence Espagne, the Government news agency, was addressed to German Fuehrer Adolf Hitler and to the Italian Premier, Benito Mussolini. It was said to describe the insurgent military position and to ask the two Fascist leaders for renewed assistance in the civil war.

The agency said Franco asked Germany and Italy, both of which have recognized the insurgents for "125,000 more men, 500 airplanes, 50 artillery batteries and a considerable number of tanks."

Italian and German volunteers have been fighting with the insurgents since the outbreak of the conflict.

Franco's Plan of Attack. Franco told Hitler and Mussolini, the agency alleged, he was planning a simultaneous offensive against Madrid and on the Teruel front northwest of the temporary capital at Valencia.

The advance against the Teruel line would be an attempt to sever Valencia from Barcelona, the capital of autonomous Catalonia.

"Such an offensive would have no chance of success unless very considerable assistance were sent from the outside," Franco was quoted by the agency as admitting.

The new aid, the agency said the memorandum reported to Hitler and Mussolini, was made necessary by a loss of 20,000 men and 20 per cent of the insurgent war materials during the siege of Bilbao.

The Government news service said that the memorandum was divided into three parts: Military, political and economic. Details of the economic section alone had not been obtained, Agence Espagne said.

Franco was quoted as declaring

Stalin Greeting North Pole Flyer on Return

WHEN the Soviet aviators who flew to the top of the world arrived back at the Central Airdrome in Moscow they were met by DICTATOR JOSEF STALIN, left, who showed his great pleasure in their feat by kissing I. T. SPIRIN, chief navigator of the expedition.

he had undertaken a "political campaign" aimed at gaining recognition for his Government and, failing that, classification as a belligerent.

Effect of Recognition. Recognition as a belligerent would give the insurgent chief the legal right to halt and search foreign shipping off Spain for contraband of war.

The alleged memorandum was said to have expressed Franco's belief that several South American countries were only awaiting "the fall of Santander" to accord him full recognition. Santander is the present major objective of the insurgent northern army, which is pressing against it after capturing Bilbao.

The agency declared Franco planned to hold a referendum in insurgent-held areas of Spain to determine the public's views of his policies.

"He assures Hitler and Mussolini the results will be favorable," Agence Espagne reported.

The agency said it assumed a copy of the memorandum was sent to Portugal, also friendly to the insurgents.

SOVIETS EXECUTE 22 AS JAPANESE SPIES

More Siberian Railway Hands Killed in Vladivostok in Espionage Purge.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, July 6.—Twenty-two more employees of the Soviet Far Eastern Railways have been executed as "agents of the Japanese Intelligence Service, spies and diversions," Khabarovsk press advisers reported last night.

The executions took place at Vladivostok. (A total of 210 known executions now have taken place in Soviet Russia's spy hunt, 153 of them in the Far East.)

ROME, July 6.—An official announcement today said 60 new airports, virtually all of them for military purposes, were under construction in Italy. A total of 25,000 workmen are being employed in the work.

BANK OF FRANCE REDISCOUNT RATE CUT AS FRANC STEADIES

Ministry of Finance Reopens Commodity Markets, Closed at Height of Crisis.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 6.—The Bank of France reduced its rediscount rate from 6 to 5 per cent today.

The reduction was possible because the "floating franc," cut loose from its restrictions by the Government last week, steadied with foreign exchange.

Interest on loans on securities was lowered from 7 to 6 per cent, and interest on 30-day loans was down from 6 to 5 per cent.

A decree of the Ministry of Finance, published under the full powers law recently granted the Chateaufort Government to save French finances, ordered the reopening of commodity markets, which were closed June 21 at the height of the fiscal crisis.

tary purposes, were under construction in Italy. A total of 25,000 workmen are being employed in the work.

F D I C CITES 24 BANKS FOR UNSOUND POLICIES

200 Others Being Watched by Crowley to Prevent Speculations.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 6.—In its annual report issued today, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation said 24 banks had been cited "for unsafe and unsound practices" during 1936. Of these, three corrected their practices, four closed and one was absorbed by another bank. The remaining cases were pending at the end of the year.

Chairman Leo T. Crowley said citations, including those issued in 1936, were pending against about 30 banks and that a close check was being made on about 200 others.

Unsafe Practices Listed. The most common practices considered unsound or unsafe for the corporation were operation with inadequate capital, excessive extension of credit to officers or directors, "other unduly hazardous or illegal extensions of credit," holding of an excessive volume of hazardous assets and "operation with dishonest, incompetent or careless management."

"The corporation," the report said, "has been concerned over the prevalence of speculative investment practices."

"Over the last two or three years, many banks have been buying securities with a view to profiting from a rise in those securities, rather than with a view to obtaining reasonable earnings over a period of time."

75 Banks in Receivership. "Examinations of banks, insured but not members of the Federal Reserve System during 1936, revealed that of their securities not issued by, or fully guaranteed by the United States Government, approximately 25 per cent were sub-standard, approximately 21 per cent of their loans were also rated sub-standard."

The report said that from the beginning of Deposit Insurance to the end of 1936, 75 insured institutions were placed in receivership. Of the 89,000 depositors in these banks, 99.5 per cent were fully protected, the report said. This protection included deposit insurance up to $5000 per depositor and preferential treatment of Government deposits.

J. D. ELLIFF RESIGNS ON LINCOLN U. ISSUE

Curator Supporting
President Florence Charges
Politics in Legislature.

COLUMBIA, Mo., July 6.—J. D. Elliff of Columbia, veteran educator, professor of high school administration in the University of Missouri, has notified Gov. Stark of his resignation from the board of curators of Lincoln University.

Dr. Elliff was president of the Lincoln board of curators up to the meeting of the board last month, at which Joseph L. McLemore, St. Louis Negro lawyer, was elected president. This change was connected with a division in the board.

Dr. Elliff was one of the minority favoring retention of President Florence, who announced his resignation after the curators' meeting. A letter which Dr. Elliff wrote to the Governor after his resignation was made public today. In the letter, he charged that President Florence was dismissed because of Florence's efforts in behalf of a bill, killed by the State Senate last spring, which was intended to give Lincoln University a non-political administration, like that of the University of Missouri.

DR. EMITT, a Democrat, said he assumed full responsibility for the bill, which passed the House. "If you do not know how this bill was killed in the Senate," he wrote, "I am sure Mr. McMure or Senator Brogan can tell you. I think you will agree that it was the worst sort of partisan politics. Mr. McMure should have full credit for voted to grant President Florence a year's leave of absence with full pay, and notified him of this action; then it reconsidered the action, and dismissed Florence with only a half-year's salary.

"President Florence," Dr. Elliff wrote, "has consistently refused to be influenced by unethical or partisan pressure of any sort. He has steadfastly refused to recommend persons unqualified for the positions to be filled. He did work for the bill to give Lincoln University a non-partisan board. These are the real reasons why he was dismissed."

As an example of partisan action by the curators, Dr. Elliff said that in 1924, on the instance of State

In 1934, on the insistence of State Superintendent Lloyd W. King, the board appointed W. G. Moseley to the faculty at $200 a month, though no vacancy existed. "Mr. Moseley is reported to have acted as Supt. King's campaign manager during the (1934) primary," the writer added.

The edifice, vacant since the Government suppressed the Hito-michi sect for esoteric rites, was sold for $150,000 to an Osaka scrap iron merchant, who will dismantle it and sell the metal. Some 3000 iron dealers flocked to the temple, bidding in the hope they could resell the massive framework to the navy for a substantial profit.

Eden Indicates New British-French Plan Will Be Offered Italy and Germany

By The Associated Press.
LONDON, July 6.—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden indicated to the House of Commons today a possible compromise in Europe's Spanish neutrality deadlock, saying the British would consider "any other proposals which are just and fair."

The deadlock finds Great Britain and France on one side and Germany and Italy on the other, unable to agree on methods for continuing future attempts to isolate Spain's year-old civil war.

Eden, speaking to the House, said a full session of the 27-member Non-Intervention Committee was to be held Friday and that this should allow "a little time for reflection on the serious issues involved." This was taken to mean that Germany and Italy might "reflect" with a view to modifying their present demands.

At the same time the British Ministers, faced with a possible break-up of the whole "hands-off-Spain" structure as a result of the present deadlock, were believed to have settled on the new formula at a late meeting last night. Eden reviewed the impasse for them in Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's private rooms in the House of Commons.

The new compromise, result of determined British efforts put new life into the Moribund 27-nation non-intervention committee, is based on abandonment of both the French-British demands for continuation of the naval patrol and the Italian-German proposal to grant belligerent rights to both Spanish Government and insurgents.

Instead, neutral observers would be posted in all Spanish ports to inspect incoming ships and report back to the committee any violations of the agreement not to send arms or troops to aid either side in the struggle which, time and again, has threatened a European war.

These observers would carry out the purpose originally assigned the four-power naval patrol. This was wrecked when Italy and Germany withdrew their warships on the grounds they had been attacked by the Valencia Government forces. Britain and France offered to assume the entire patrol but that was rejected by Italy and Germany, who still retained their membership in the committee. The two Fascist powers countered with their proposal to confer belligerent rights.

France Reported Ready to Grant "Limited" Belligerent Rights.

By The Associated Press.
PARIS, July 6.—Sources close to the French Foreign Ministry predicted today that Great Britain and France might agree to give the Spanish insurgents "limited" belligerent rights in return for Italian-German co-operation in a "hands off Spain" sea patrol.

France already has agreed to such a proposal it was said, and is trying to induce Britain to join it. The "limited" belligerent rights in Spanish territorial waters would give insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco's stronger fleet the right to blockade Government ports and control shipping. Government or foreign, within the three-mile limit. It was pointed out that France's chief fear—that Franco might obstruct its shipping in the Mediterranean between Europe and its North African colonies—was offset by limiting the insurgents' rights within the three-mile zone. French sources also said that the principle of withdrawal of all foreign fighters from Spain must be established quickly and, therefore, would be included in the compromise proposals. Diplomatic quarters conceded, however, that there was slight hope that the principle could be put into force.

LIFE IN THE FIRST SETTLEMENT AT THE NORTH POLE

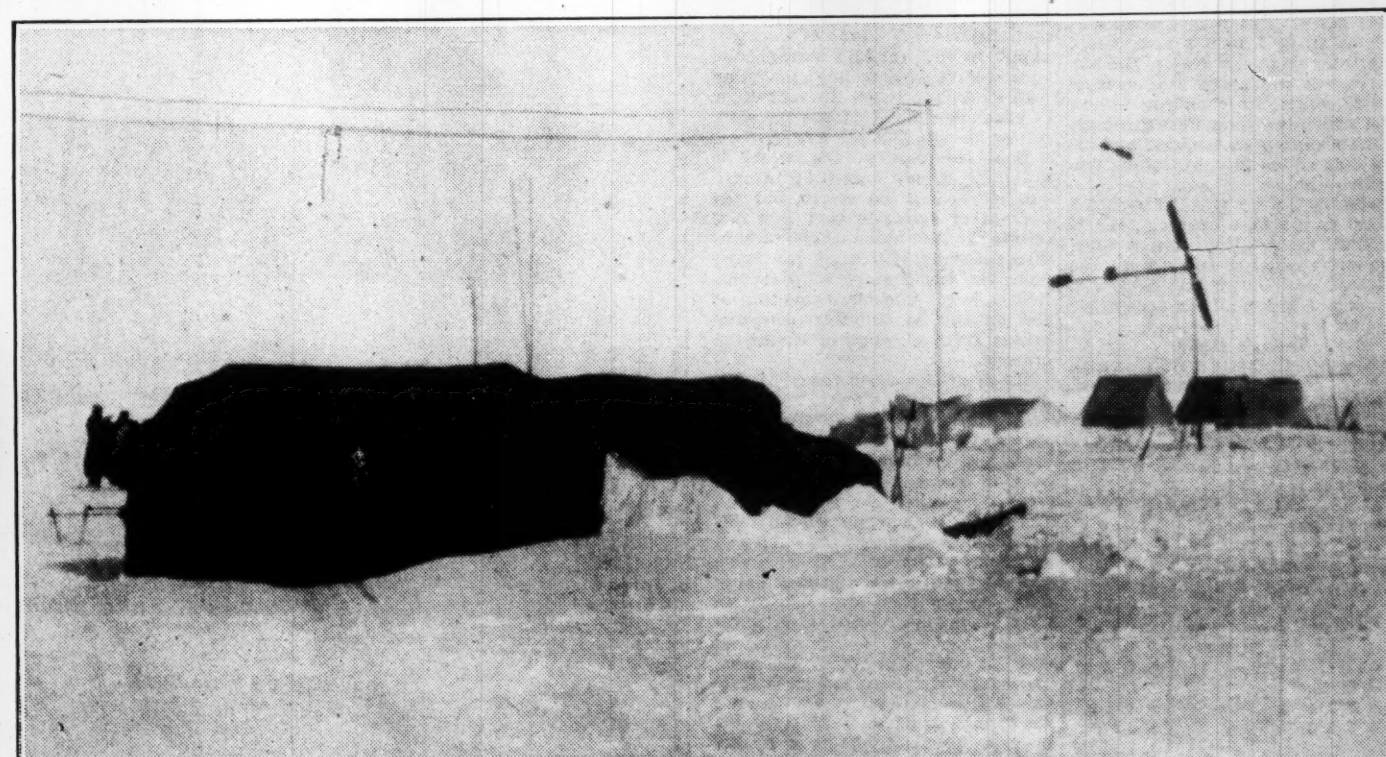

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU—By BOB BURNS

A LOTTA people don't seem to understand why a business man needs a wife for a balance. If he's a weak sorta fella and never puts his mind to his business, he needs a business woman who can keep his nose to the grindstone and make somethin' out of him, but if he's a fella that worries a lot about his business he needs one of those frivolous wives. My Uncle J. Mortimer was a big business man, but when he was pretty near wiped out in the business crash, I believe he would have gone crazy if he hadn't had the right kind of wife for a balance. He came home one evening wondering how he was gonna break the news to his wife and when he got home, he found she had everything packed up. He says, "Oh, so you're gonna leave me now?" She says, "No we're going to the beach" and he says "We can't go to the beach—we have our debts to think about." And she says, "Well, can't we think about our debts lyin' on the beach?"

A general view of the settlement, showing several tents and the radio antennae.

Members of the expedition taking leave of those who remained behind.

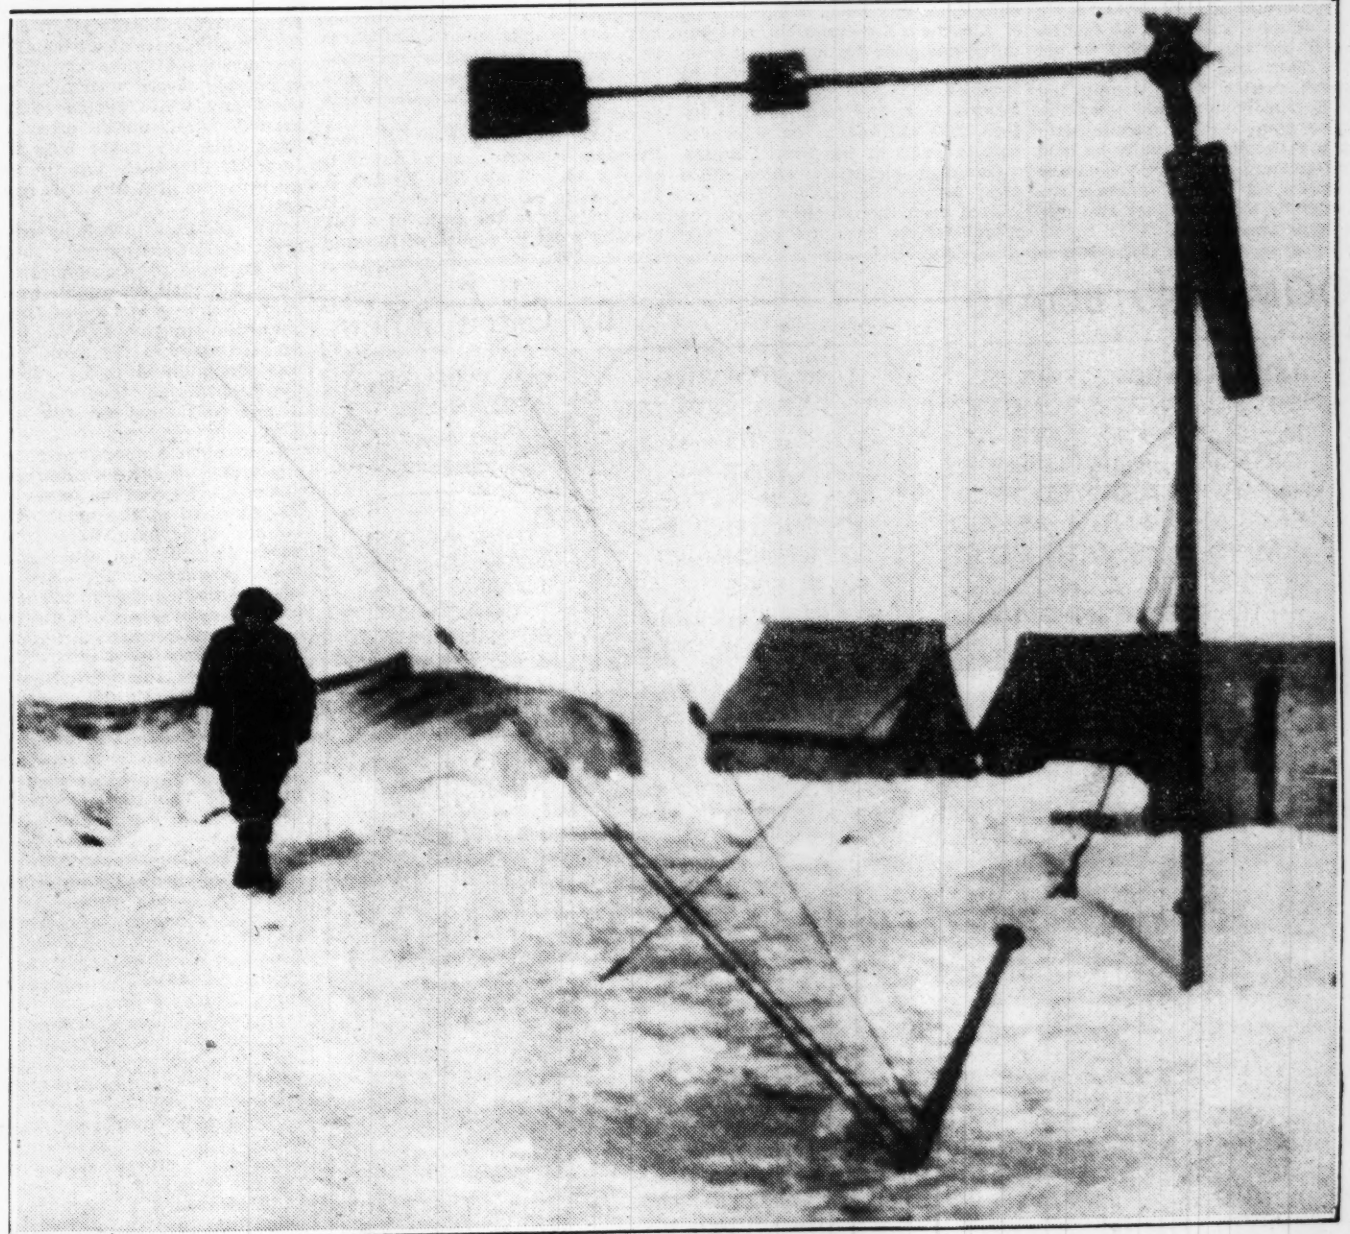

Prof. Otto J. Schmidt, chief of operations. Soviet transport in background.

Problems of Weddings and Invitations

Attendance Lists — Proper Drink for a Toast to Bride and Groom.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post: WE HAVE decided to invite only nearest relatives (by which I mean both our families) and a few of our most intimate friends. Because my fiancée's family outnumber mine by three to one, I am wondering if I might make a longer list of friends than he? I have so many friends of whom I am really fond and he has just a few. Answer: Your and his lists both should include only those people who are in the same category. But it is no more necessary that your lists of intimate friends total the same number as his than it would be for you to have the same number of brothers and sisters and other relatives that he has. Certainly you may ask best friends, but you should not add acquaintances merely to counterbalance the length of his family list!

Dear Mrs. Post: I have received a wedding invitation with separate card enclosed on which is written "within the ribbons." Am I supposed to present this card to the usher? And does it mean that I am to sit in the best seats? Answer: Usually the pew number is written on the bride's mother's visiting card and sent to each person who is given a reserved seat, but it is an open question whether a little card reading "within the ribbons," and without any number, is not more practical. This card is shown to the usher who finds the name of the guest on his list, which can have been revised at the last moment and the places of those who are not able to come given to those whose places were originally farther back. Of course, if every one comes exactly as planned, the number written on the bride's mother's card is much the simplest, but since accidents and illnesses are very apt to occur, the indefinite places are more easily arranged. After all, the list of those to be seated in front of the ribbons is fairly short since it merely includes the families and fewest most intimate friends.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By Martha Carr

My dear Mrs. Carr: I AM a girl 15 years old and have been reading your column for a very long time and have seen what good advice you give to young and old. So, please, please, answer this letter.

I have a great many friends and am very popular and there are some boys who are very nice ones, who would be glad to see me, but my mother does not like them to come to see me. I know she hates the idea of my having anything to do with boys. Mrs. Carr, I feel ashamed when a boy asks me to let him come to see me and I have to answer that I am not allowed to receive company. Mrs. Carr, I try to be as decent and respectable as I can. I try not to make friends with boys, but what can a girl do if a boy wants to meet her? It is not my fault if he is showing the proper way to say I don't want to meet him. Please answer as soon as you can.

SAD AND LONESOME.
Isn't it possible to meet him as a friend instead of a "date"? The proper way for a girl of your age to be respected by everyone (boys included) is to improve her English (which you need to do) to fill her mind with wholesome things so that she knows how to be a pal; to learn to do something in a pal; to learn to treat a boy as if he were a human being instead of a beast. You don't know it, perhaps, but one reason the boys are so anxious to come to see you and say so much about it, is because they are sometimes; they take a gleeful and stubborn interest in trying to do something they know they will be opposed to.

Your mother probably has no objection to your going with a bunch of boys and girls swimming or to the picture show or other places; but she knows it is silly for you to have "beaux" in the drawing room, with low lights and romance. Get that out of your head and you will not be "sad and lonesome."

My dear Mrs. Carr: I AM sure the children who have been lucky enough to get new swimming suits this summer would like to give their old ones to some of the children who need, but cannot afford them. We can use any color and size and we shall certainly appreciate their generosity and kindness.

I am a playground instructor and was told that you printed a request of this kind last year and we have a good response. Please forward the suits if possible to the Shaw School, 5329 Columbia, St. Louis. A. M. G.

Dear Martha Carr: I AM in love with a boy and know that he is in love with me—but he takes me entirely too much for granted; telephoning at the last minute and asking for a date, and when I already have one he gets angry and says that I knew he was going to ask me. I think he assumes too much, even if I do know his mind. As long as he wants to be with me, don't you think he could ask ahead of time? I am reasonably popular and have plenty of chances to make other dates and as long as he continues to call me up at the last minute I'm going to make other dates when I have the chance. Can't you suggest something that will make him understand? I've tried everything to make him see that I love him and want to be with him, but don't want to be just TAKEN FOR GRANTED.

I agree with you entirely. He may think it all right to test you out in this way; and I should say that he is being something of a rascal. But, even should he want to put you to such a test, his regard for you, his affection, his good and good breeding might suggest that he show you the courtesy expected of a gentleman in such circumstances. If he is ignorant of the proper attention and deference due you, you might forgive it if he were willing to learn. However, if he has had the teaching I surmise from your letter he has had, then this is just a piece of unfortunate selfishness.

How Children Often Adopt Wrong Views

Inexperience Frequently Causes Them to Misjudge Other Persons.

By Angelo Patri

"DID you hear what she said?" "Yes, and did you hear the way she said it?" Such affection.

"She has such funny ways. Never does anything like anybody else. Remember when we had tomatoes with French dressing for lunch she wouldn't have any dressing and put sugar on her tomatoes?"

"Yes, wasn't it awful? I don't see how she can eat such stuff. Do you?"

"Not me. She's fond of cats. I hate cats. Don't you?"

"Do I! I should say I do. I always say there's something funny about a girl who likes cats the way she does. Even the boys don't seem to care for them as they care for girls who, you know, like dogs and eat like other people, and all that."

"Yes, isn't it so? She doesn't seem to go with any boys much except Hally. I see him with her sometimes—no hat, hair flying. Looks like a mess to me. She's not our kind, that's sure."

"Who are you talking about, girls? Seems to me you're being rather hard on somebody, aren't you?"

"Oh, mother, she's so funny, queer—outlandish, you might say. No real style, you know, kinda flat. Minna and I haven't bothered to talk to her much. Not our kind. Minna's mother called on her mother and she says she is really rather nice. But they're foreigners. Funny ways foreigners have."

Mother set down a plate of macaroni and the two chums set to work eating them, still picking out feathers of this new girl. Finally mother said, "I wonder how you look to her? I saw her and Hally Savage yesterday and I thought she looked like a very nice girl, healthy and bright and sure of herself."

"Oh, she's sure of herself, all right. That's one reason we're against her. After all, she's a stranger, and a foreigner, and you might think she would be—well, you know, more shy. She just goes along and never bothers. Rather ignorant, I'd say."

"It seems to me that you are being unkind, not to say intolerant. You haven't said a kind word for that girl. Please toward the suits if possible to the Shaw School, 5329 Columbia, St. Louis. A. M. G."

"What difference does it make to you whether she wears a hat or not? Or how she eats her tomatoes? Or what nationality her people are? I should think that what you would be interested in was her manners, her attitudes, her general behavior. I don't like to hear you picking on people that way. It makes you seem pretty small."

"Why should we go out of our way to think well of a girl who never does the things we do in the way we do them? Goes to a different church, speaks a different language, eats different food, likes different things, is just as foreign as foreign can be. She's simply not in our class, mother."

"Too bad," said mother grimly. "I'll have to tell you who she is. After that I imagine she'll be about perfect, 100 per cent. She is the niece of the Governor. She has been reared in a school abroad. Her mother is the sister of the Governor and my old friend. But what feel bad about is your intolerance. You've punished for it this time. Maybe you'll learn."

A DOCTOR'S VIEWS ON EXERCISE

Like Education, It's All Right for the Young—But If a Man's Healthy, He Doesn't Need It and If He's Not, It Won't Do Him Any Good—Sometimes It Is Positively Harmful for Middle-aged Persons.

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
Reprinted by Special Permission of Esquire Magazine.

EXERCISE is like education. Not only that they both begin with the letter "E," although that is resemblance enough for a hard-pressed essayist. There are other reasons. They are both all right for the young, but they were never designed for the old. There is a definite moment in the life of man—but of that, later.

Then education is to the effect, if I understand what President Hutchins of the University of Chicago has been trying to get at for the last two years, in the words of a friend of mine—"If a boy's bright, he don't need no college education, and if he ain't, it won't do him no good." That is not necessarily my idea, you understand, but who am I to bandy words with an eminent pedagog?

Exercise is like that. If a man is healthy, he don't need no exercise, and if he ain't, it won't do him no good. I once alienated temporarily the affections of a very dear friend of mine who asked me, "Is sleeping on a sleeping porch healthy?" My answer was, "What do you mean by 'healthy'?" At which he flung from my presence muttering something to the effect that that was just like "one of these leeches—wouldn't answer a plain question because there wasn't any fee in it. Everybody knows what 'healthy' means." But do they? Do you mean, will it make you live longer? The answer is "No" both for exercise and sleeping porches. I knew a man once who set fire to his bed on a sleeping porch with a cigarette. There was a high wind and he was saturated with alcohol and burned like tinder. It was very touching. The sleeping porch undoubtedly shortened his life. If he had been inside, his smoke would have been smelled by other members of the family, who might possibly have rescued him.

Do you mean by "healthy" does exercise keep you from having colds or infections or resisting them better? Not a bit. Exercise doesn't increase immunity a particle. You can take a bushel of "stiff workouts"—I think that's the word—and walk into a pest house, and if you've never been vaccinated, you'll have just as swell a case of smallpox as the flabbiest clerk. Maybe sweller.

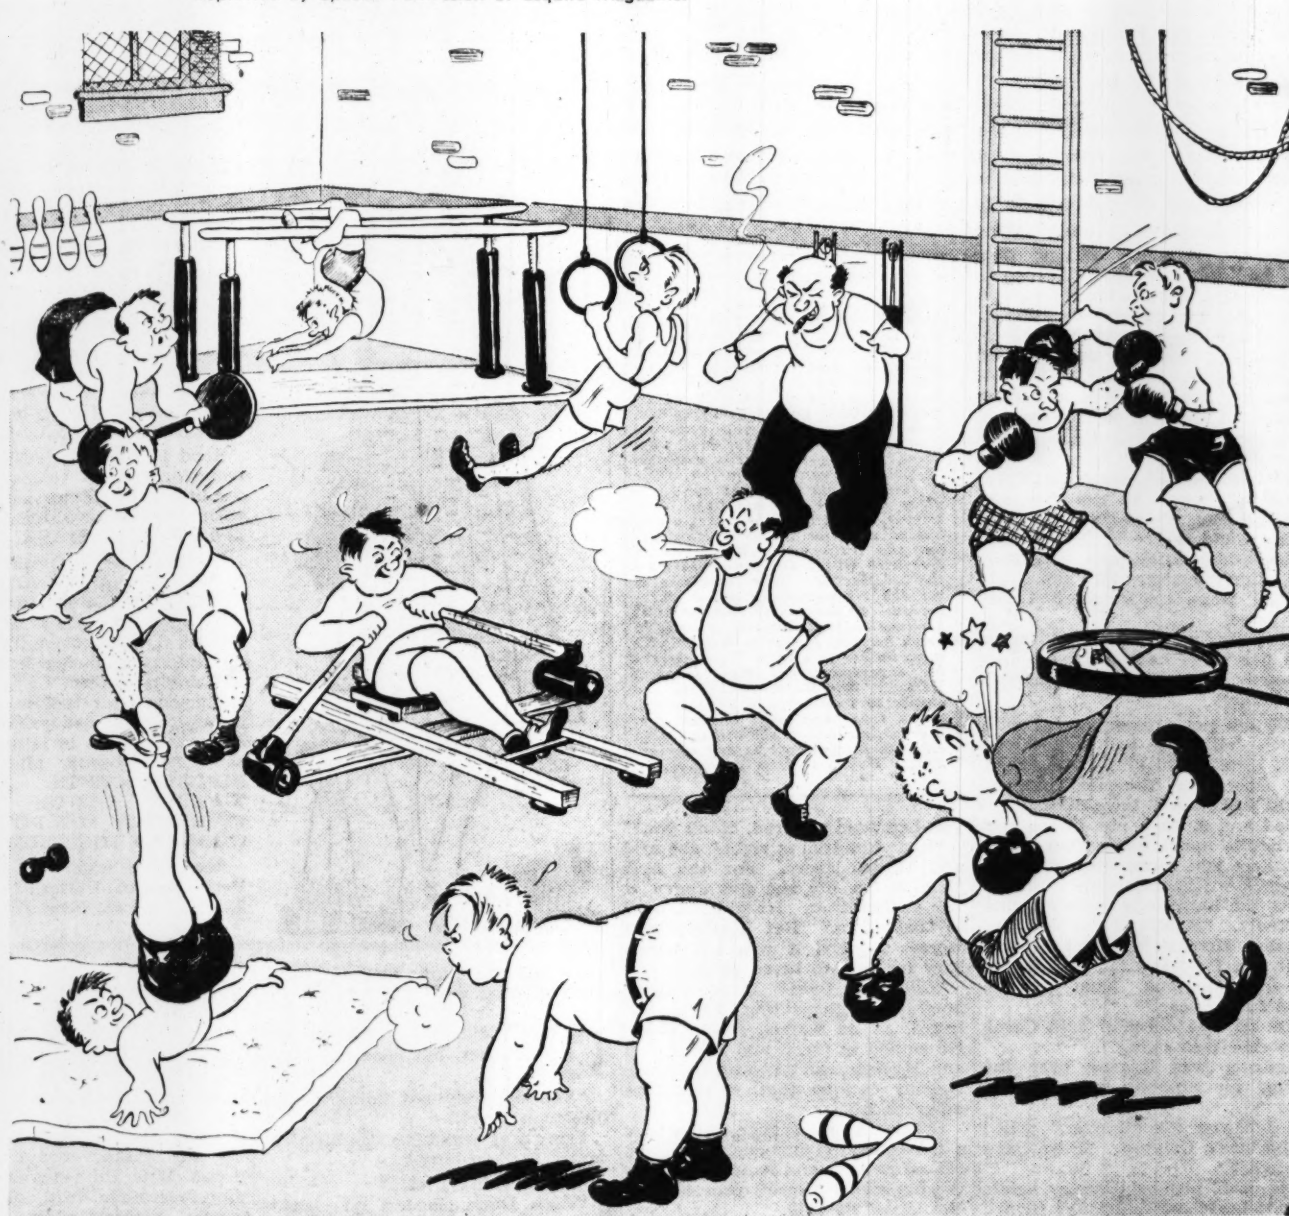

You could go right down the line with this. Does it stave off kidney and heart disease, high blood pressure—all the bugaboos of middle age? You know better than that. You must have seen plenty of the boys who are determined to beat that game by keeping in trim, pop off at what would be a shocking age to a billiard marker.

But you say it makes you better able to endure more. More what? More exercise. Well, there you are—in a vicious circle. Here is where the analogy to education comes in again. As I understand it, the psychologists have decided that the old idea of learning Latin, for instance, was good for you because it trained your mind, is no longer true. It just trains you to learn more Latin. Whether this holds for the realm of the spirit or not, it certainly holds for the realm of the muscles. You play tennis and it trains you, but only to play more tennis. Of course, you can train your heart and increase your wind, but stop awhile and see how soon you lose it.

Of course, I don't mind if people take exercise. I make no criticism of sneering remarks. But I hate to have 'em keep after me about taking exercise. And I don't want to go to athletic contests or feats of strength. There is no more painful sight than a class of business men exercising through the noon hour—the thin ones expecting to get fat and the fat ones expecting to get thin, I don't belong to clubs where they allow that sort of thing to go on.

The exact moment in life when a man should give up regular exercise is marked by an event which is performed just as unconsciously and naturally as winding up your watch at night. I referred to it above—it is the moment when you buy and have sent home a rowing machine. In spite of the fact that it is a complete waste of money it is a very sound investment.

You get the thing home and "Here," you say to yourself, "is something that is going to keep me in trim. There are lots of bad days around here when I can't play golf and besides my old foursome is pretty well broken up. Ed moved away, and Duncan has got arthritis and Charley is crazy about that new wife of his and spends pretty near every Saturday afternoon gardening with her. Now here is something practical that will take its place so that I can get my exercise, rain or shine, and every morning and every night before going to bed." So in a moment an athlete has become good and comes one of those fine, drizzly afternoons, just made to sit in a big chair with not the slightest temptation to get out and be a strong man, but there is the rowing machine. You have bought it and now you are going to use it. So you sit down and row across Lake Geneva and arise feeling as if every internal organ you have had ruptured. The rowing machine remains in a scorched condition for hours. Your back and arms and the back of your legs are killing you. That is the beginning of the end. Every time you look at the machine after that, you are filled with loathing. From then on you wait for nice days to take your exercise, and not much at that.

There are even times at this dreadful time of middle age when exercise is positively harmful. The theory is gaining ground in this renaissance period of the three-bottle-men reputation, that an extra round of golf or a set of tennis will allow you to have one more highball or cocktail than usual. Now, experience will show that exercise provides no immunity from the action of alcohol, either. Many an athlete has become good and plastered by relying on this "every-exercise-means-an-extra-highball theory."

EVEN the value of exercise as a means of reducing weight has been challenged by the work of a professor at the University of Michigan. When he starts to reduce a patient—and he takes only those weighing over 300 pounds, I understand—he exacts an agreement from them to go into a hospital room and give him the key to it. All the food that the patient eats is inspected by him and every visitor is searched for smuggled goodies.

He recently showed the pictures of a patient who began treatment at 670 pounds. For three years he ate mostly lettuce and saw, but he came down to 170. All the exercise he got was in the hospital room.

When you come to figure it out, the professor says, exercise doesn't use up so much weight. Climbing up to the top of Pike's Peak only requires about 2000 calories and you could balance that by omitting bread, butter, meat and gravy, vegetable and dessert from your daily intake. A bout with the dumbbells is balanced by omitting two soda crackers from the menu.

It USED to be visiting painters and sculptors who were asked what they thought of our beautiful American women. Nowadays it is photographers, become so important that what they say really matters. One of them is in town now—Hors, from Paris. He says the American woman has lost her glamour in repose, but lost it when she moves. In a word, lack of grace is our trouble. I do not hold with him in this opinion. But his next point is well taken. He says that the "out-of-door" beauty is a purely American institution. That European women need interior settings to point up their charms.

A New York girl who dresses like a Californian—which she is originally—is Eleanor LeMaire, our famous interior architect. Probably the best one in the country. Eleanor always recalls Tribble to me. She is a big girl with masses of natural auburn hair, wide blue eyes and the pink-and-white coloring that go with that type of profigate beauty. She knows plenty about fashion, but has never been content with the run-of-the-mill hard-and-fast summer rule of black for the city. The other day at a fashion group lunch, Eleanor turned up in brilliant turquoise blue from top to toe, and stood out like a beacon among us.

Mary Dougherty, conceded to be one of this country's smartest women, page editors, wears dark blue glasses in the office. They rest her eyes, she says. And she always wears a tie or a pin the exact shade of the specs. She says if a woman wears glasses, they are as much a part of her personality as her lipstick, which is always carefully harmonized or matched to a costume. She's right, and it's something women who wear glasses might think about.

MONTARNASSE DRESSING
PEACH MOUSSE CAKE

Melt two tablespoons of butter. Finely mince two tablespoons each of onion and green pepper, one and a half cups of mushrooms and celery. Saute these mixed ingredients in butter for five minutes, then stir in one rounded tablespoon of flour. After the flour is dissolved gradually pour on one and a half quarts of well-seasoned chicken or veal stock. Add just a dash of sugar, mace, salt and pepper and let simmer until the celery is tender. Stir in one-half cup of finely-chopped mushrooms and let just before serving fold in one and a half cups of cream whipped. Serve very hot.

CHICKEN SPECIALITE
Cut four broiling chickens in halves, remove wing 'ps and thigh bones and roll holding, in place with toothpicks. Salt, pepper and dip in melted butter, then dredge lightly with flour. Fry in melted butter until golden brown. Make a dressing by mincing one-half pound of chicken livers fine. Add two tablespoons of tarragon parsley, cubed salt pepper, poultry seasoning and two cups of bread crumbs which have been soaked in milk, then squeezed. Melt four tablespoons of butter and in this cook the dressing for 10 minutes, stirring constantly. Heat with beaten egg. Spread the dressing on a greased roasting pan and on top place the chicken rolls. Cover tightly and let steam for one-half hour in a moderate oven. To the drummings in which the chicken was browned add two tablespoons of flour. When well blended, gradually pour on two cups of rich milk. Let boil for a few minutes and add more seasoning if necessary. Strain, place over a low flame and stir in the yolk of one egg and sherry to taste. Do not let boil. Place the dressing on bottom of heated platter and top with the chicken. Garnish with Paradise plums and parsley. Serve the sauce from a gravy dish.

BURGOS POTATOES
Cook one quart of new potatoes until tender. Drain well and shake dry over a low flame, then press through the ricer. Place in a saucepan with five tablespoons of butter, salt and a dash of nutmeg and stir until well mixed and thickened. Remove from fire and stir in the yolks of two eggs. Spread out on a platter to cool. Cut in squares and fry to a nice brown.

FRENCH EGGPLANT
Peel and slice the eggplant one-half inch thick. Marinate for 30 minutes in a well-seasoned French dressing. Place on a buttered baking sheet and bake or broil about 45 minutes.

MONTARNASSE DRESSING
Mash the yolks of two hard-boiled eggs with two teaspoons of prepared mustard, salt and pepper. Add two tablespoons of tarragon vinegar and six tablespoons of olive oil. Beat all together until smooth and creamy. Pour over watercress in a wooden bowl and toss until leaves are coated.

PEACH MOUSSE
Mash one pint of ripe peaches and sweeten to taste. Stir in the juice of one-half lemon and let stand for several hours to mellow. Beat three cups of cream until foamy and into the cream fold the

It's always been my idea to help bridge players with a little overland kibitzing.

But bridge has changed so much that we are no longer a qualified instructor. Like the farmer that was tossed by the mule, we started with it but it got away from us.

17,000 Persons Attend Opening Outdoor Concert at Lewisohn Stadium.

By Alice Hughes

(Copyright, 1937.)

NEW YORK, July 6.
ONE of New York's greatest open air events—the out-of-door concert—is now prepared to run for the next two months at Lewisohn's Open Air Stadium of the College of the City of New York. These concerts for you have been underwritten by the aged philanthropist, August Heckscher. The first night opened with the sure-fire Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, with Albert Spalding as violin soloist. The night was perfect; the audience, which means 17,000 persons, including the sponsors who sit in the 50-cent concrete stadium seats from which students watch football games. In a dim light, high from the ground, these handholding, music-enraptured young folk fail to feel the hard, cold stony seats—for what better opiate is there than young-love-plus-music?

This season the plan is to produce more opera and ballet than ever before, because these draw the biggest attendance. Wagner lovers will be able to realize their acquaintance with parts of the Ring, under the able direction of Fritz Reiner. For the modern minded, "Lady Macbeth of Muench," for which the able Russian composer Shostakovich lost his standing with the Soviet regime. The concerts are underwritten with a $75,000 guarantee, and it looks like a great season for Verdi, Brahms and Chopin, popular favorites, as well as for George Gershwin, whose modern symphonies have so outstripped the realm of jazz that his music merits program place along with the best.

No city in the world is as musically pampered as New York, and this summer will prove no exception, according to the plans of Mrs. Charles S. Guggenheim, the Stadium's chairwoman. The concerts are underwritten with a $75,000 guarantee, and it looks like a great season for Verdi, Brahms and Chopin, popular favorites, as well as for George Gershwin, whose modern symphonies have so outstripped the realm of jazz that his music merits program place along with the best.

PREPARE A NICHE FOR ONE OF THIS WORLD'S NOBLEMEN! When tempers cool and the winds of controversy subside and historians settle down to record the travail of the Twentieth Century, what name will emerge as the Greatest Humanitarian of All? John L. No, friends, some name that means nothing to contemporary eyes will be written in letters of gold—scratched on the corridors of time. Some humble soul, perhaps you, or you, or you, will get the nod.

We are all too close to hurried events to recognize a passing saint. Be that as it may, we lift our hat right now to Abner B. Buckthorne, an obscure telephone cord twister, employed in the Time Table Folding Department of the Foster Travel Service. He has made a humanitarian suggestion that may, if adopted, change the whole relationship between employer and wage slave.

"My idea," says Mr. Buckthorne, "after years of observation, is that employees come back from a two weeks' vacation more tired than when they left. I am, therefore, organizing a movement to get the Labor Board to rule that everybody be granted an extra two weeks' vacation to rest up from vacation strain."

Hartley Becomes Angry After Losing Heavily to Duke on Selections Made by Carol.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE. CAROL had thought she would be glad to be back at Brookdale—Brookdale which was now securely hers. All her life it had been home to her, but now she found no peace, no rest in it. It was good to see her grandfather again, to know that he was well. But the other things were so disturbing, to allow her to find much pleasure or help from him.

Outstanding among the disturbing things, of course, was Hartley Madison. How would she treat him, now that she knew she did not love him? She was thankful that the excitement of the races filled their days, left them practically no time alone together. Until the races were over—until he had ruined Duke, he must have no slightest suspicion of her change of heart.

There were other things, too. She had lost her knack for picking winners. Night after night, she pored over her papers, working on percentages as she had never done before. And day after day, she lost at the tracks. Madison, who followed her tips, was even a heavier loser. And Madison, she discovered to her surprise, was not a good loser.

On the last day before the Hopeful Stakes would be run, she was so tense that she was alarmed lest Duke would notice it. Her grandfather and Hartley, who were with her, didn't matter, but she must not let Duke know she had lost her poise.

"You're a nut," her grandfather told her when he learned she had selected Pit-A-Pat. "Extension's the horse."

She did not answer except with a little smile. She had picked winners. She would pick them again. But she was thinking that she might as well have been blindfolded and stuck a pin on the racing list, to indicate her choice, during these last races when she had wanted so desperately to win.

"At the half," cried Grandfather excitedly, "Marchtown by two lengths; Extension second by one. Your nag Pit-A-Pat barely hanging on—she's stopping. That goat always falls asleep."

"Oh no, she doesn't," said Carol. "The race isn't over."

Madison was leaning over the railing, an anxious look on his face.

"I tell you it's all over," yelled Grandfather Clayton. "Pit-A-Pat's through."

"No, no!" pleaded Hartley, while Carol's heart sank and she turned away. "She's got to win."

A thunder of hoofs past the stand, a roar of cheers from the crowd and Grandfather Clayton was jumping up and down, yelling at the top of his lungs: "Extension by three lengths! EXTENSION!"

Carol bit her lip. She could not look at Hartley. She had seen and had not liked the look on his face when he lost.

"Well, honey," he said, "you were wrong again."

"Again!" snorted Grandfather Clayton. "What else is she ever but wrong, these days? What did you two chumps lose?"

"I had five thousand," said Madison. Then turning to Carol: "And after all the bum steers you've been dishing out."

CAROL did not answer her grandfather, but spoke to Madison.

"You're surely not going to bet on Moon Ray?"

Duke was watching Madison intently for his answer.

"Yes, I think I will."

"With Dixie Gordon on Lightning?" she cried. "Dixie will do anything to bring his mount in first. And such a horse as Lightning! Are you crazy?"

"Hartley knows what Moon Ray can do," cut in Grandfather Clayton. "I told him and I know. Remember I bred and raised that horse and I know."

Hartley may have tried to hold back his anger, but it broke through in what he said to Carol.

"I've lost almost $95,000 dollars to Duke on your handicapping. I wouldn't mind getting it back before the season closes. Something tells me it is time to use my own judgment from now on."

Carol shrugged his shoulders. She could not trust herself to answer him. This was bad enough. She could not risk bringing on a scene. "I don't blame you, Madison," said Duke. "One good sizeable bet could put you right out in the clear."

"Are you coming, Hartley?" asked Carol. "I'm going."

"Coming, dear."

"May I see you at the hotel?" asked Duke quickly. He couldn't run the risk of letting Madison be influenced by Carol to change his bet.

"Sorry, Duke. But Carol's asked some friends out to the house. Have to tiddle along."

"What?" objected Grandfather Clayton. "Another get-together of those frozen-faces? Thank you for the tip-off. I'm going to town and get plastered."

"How's for coming to my room and having dinner with me, Grandpa?" asked Duke.

"Darn tootin'," squealed the old man with a scornful look at his grand-daughter. "Them society dummies he lost."

Carol took Madison's arm, urging him to hurry. She must be home, she said, before her guests arrived. He turned for a last word with Duke.

"I'll send you my check for today's losses."

"Oh, don't bother," Duke waved the offer aside graciously. "You're good for it with me. And for anything else you may lose. We'll let it ride on Moon Ray tomorrow."

"Come on, Hartley," said Carol sharply.

"So long, honey," called Duke to Carol, a wide grin on his face. She did not answer him with

The Effect of "Dog and Cat" Living on Man

By The Rev. J. F. Newton

"IT SEEMS to me," writes a reader, "that you are doing a lot of good just talking over with us problems of everyday living. But one thing I wish you would explain, if you can."

"In a home where I visit occasionally, all the members of the family are very religious, parents and children alike. They are very careful to keep what seems to them to be the law."

"They say grace before meals and have family worship. Yet no sooner than prayer is over, they begin to bite each other's heads off, using some of the most cutting words doing it."

"They would think it a sin to dance, or to go to a show; but they seem unable to keep the peace in the family, even for an hour. The influence of such a home is bad, yet they never miss church."

"Some time ago," writes another reader, "we had a couple for dinner, and the way the wife gave her husband away in front of other people beat anything I have ever seen or heard of."

"Of course, he laughed it off as best he could to avoid any unpleasantness; but I caught them looking at each other when no one was noticing, and I have never seen such hatred!"

"As they left they thanked us for an enjoyable evening—not enjoyable for us, in fact—but if they carry on like that in public, what must it be like when they are by themselves?"

"Every family, I know, has its ups and downs, its spits and spats, but those two made me turn hot and cold all over. They have two children, and one wonders what it means to them."

"Yes, such cat and dog living is hideous, and the memory of such a home will be horrible in after years. How strange that people torment and torture each other, and enjoy doing it."

To judge from my letters, there is a lot of such dog-eat-dog living, which makes life mean and religion a mockery. If the air of the home is bad, or bitter, nothing else can be very good."

Poor Color

If the white clothing seems a poor color to you as you are ironing it, immediately after removing it from the ironing board and while it is still hot from the iron, hang it out in the hot sun. It will bleach it beautifully for you.

her lightly on the shoulder. As she turned to see who it was, he thrust the cup in her hands.

"Better give this to the gentleman," he said with a twinkle in his eye. "I think he's going to need it."

Before she could answer, he turned and walked away. But after a few paces, he came back. She stood as if stupefied, the cup still in her hands.

"I forgot something," he said. He had put his hand out over the cup. There was a sharp sound of something falling in it. It was a quarter.

Gas Stove

When starting with a new gas stove, form the habit of removing the broiler from the bottom of the oven unless it is in use, each time the oven is heated. The constant heat on the enamel is what causes it to break and chip. It is safer to keep the broiler in the compartment with the pots and pans and then it will not be forgotten.

EARHART SEARCH TO BE MADE SOUTH OF HOWLAND

Operations Shifted From North—Battleship Colorado, Carrying Planes, to Meet Cutter Itasca and Refuel It.

SOME LAND IN SPOTS TO BE VISITED

Observers Agree if Radio Signals Heard Came From Missing Flyer She Must Be Above Water on Tiny Island.

By the Associated Press.
HONOLULU, July 7.—Navy ships and planes, co-ordinating efforts in the vast hunt for Amelia Earhart, aimed today at a new region in the South Pacific wastes where growing belief and some facts indicated the missing aviator may be marooned.

The coast guard at San Francisco, said it had been checking with the cutter Itasca throughout the day but had no news.

Five discouraging days of scanning the immense area north-north-east of bleak Howland Island, which the flyer missed last Friday, turned the search to the corresponding area, centered south-south-east of Howland, where 230 miles away center the Phoenix Islands.

The Coast Guard cutter Itasca and Navy mine sweeper Swan, have searched more than 104,000 square miles north of Howland without a trace of the missing plane. The Itasca methodically scanned an area 300 nautical miles in each direction while the Swan covered a strip 15 miles wide by 240 miles long.

The battleship Colorado, speeding toward an early morning meeting with the Coast Guard cutter Itasca, planned to release its three biplane squadrons today for the first aerial search of the area which holds the fate of Miss Earhart and her navigator, Frederick J. Noonan.

Cutter to Be Refueled.

The two vessels were to meet at dawn (about 11:30 a. m., St. Louis time) within 100 miles of Howland to refuel the cutter, which had carried on the search virtually alone since last Friday.

Early reports indicated good weather would be experienced today in the Howland vicinity. Officers expect refueling and the replenishing of the Itasca's water supply will require about seven hours.

The ships will proceed into the area east and south of Howland, the Colorado preceded by her fast planes.

More aid from the air was expected over the week-end from the aircraft carrier Lexington, speeding from California toward a refueling at Lahaina Roads, Hawaii, where she was expected to-morrow.

Leaving San Diego Sunday with three destroyers, the Lexington was sailing the Pacific at 33 knots yesterday, a knot and a half below top speed, but a full knot faster than the Atlantic record set by the liner Normandie.

Another dash southward of more than 1500 miles lay ahead of the Lexington before she could send her 37 planes into an aerial search.

Shifting of the search to the south of Howland followed suggestions of Coast Guard officials in San Francisco, who conferred with Miss Earhart's husband, George Palmer Putnam, a growing belief among other searching agencies, and a recheck of the last available radio messages while the ill-fated plane was in the air.

May Be Marooned on Reef.

Officials agreed Miss Earhart, if she sent any of the maze of unexplained radio distress signals, must be marooned on land or on a reef above water, because her radio would not operate otherwise.

North of Howland, there is neither known land nor reef for hundreds of miles, but to the south and east is an area dotted with tiny islets and some reefs, beginning as close as 100 miles.

The cutter Itasca reported a portable radio direction finder set up on Howland Island had obtained bearings on final messages from the Earhart plane while it was in the air indicating it either was north northwest of Howland or south-south-east.

Searchers recalled that the final decipherable report from the plane while it vainly sought Howland last Friday morning mentioned "we
